Libraries, schools join forces

By Tara Clifton
 Staff Reporter

In this age, knowing how to easily access information is vital. Local libraries and schools partnered in a new project in the hopes they can help young people learn how to find out about the world around them.

The Antioch Public Library, Lake Villa Public Library, school district 34, Antioch Community High School, Lakes Community High School and other libraries and schools have joined to offer programs that will teach teenagers the importance of reading and grant them opportunities to discover library resources.

Each library partner was granted $1,000 to purchase materials for the project, totaling a $50,000 grant offered from Secretary of State Jesse White.

"Teens are sometimes overlooked," said Randee Hudson, coordinator of the 18 schools and libraries involved. "We want to make sure they know they'll find enthusiastic librarians and teachers to help them."

Libraries will hold workshops, book discussions and purchase materials to enhance ease of access to information, Hudson said.

Librarians want to make sure that as teenagers advance from middle school, to high school and college they know how to browse through information to get what they need, Hudson said.

"We want them to know there are people to help them through this," she said.

And hopefully young adults will learn to appreciate reading, which many already do, said Marylou Stampfl, director of library media services at Lakes Community High School.

New Web site puts spotlight on local area bands

By Tara Clifton
 Staff Reporter

Inner Surge. Blue Menagerie. Don't recognize these local bands? William Corey hopes that one day they and other groups will not only be known across the county, but possibly nationwide.

Only two weeks old, Corey's new Antioch-based Internet radio station, www.ctracks.com, aims to be the gathering place for music diehards, featuring mp3 downloads, album and concert reviews, discussion groups and more. Bands can sign up for a free membership to post their links, music tracks and have their material played on the air. Corey, 36, said he wants his station to be an outlet for bands that wouldn't have a chance to get exposure otherwise.

"It would be so nice to hear something not hyped up by big labels or advertised on TV," Corey said. "It would be nice if there was equal opportunity for people who don't have money to get signed. We want to give them an avenue to get noticed."

Corey understands this firsthand. Music has been a part of his life since high school, where he played trumpet. He has played guitar for 19 years, and was a member of local band "Swim" for three years.

Right now he is in a group called "View From a Speeding Train," where he does vocals and guitar. He and his two bandmates hope to have a CD out by February, and have used the new Internet site to showcase their work.

Other bands seem to be doing this as well. Corey said the site received 2,873 hits last week, and about 10 bands have asked to be featured.

But the site is still in the works. Only two band reviews have been written so far, and the forums hold only several messages.

Duncan, 11, takes ACHS classes

By Tara Clifton
 Staff Reporter

Danny Duncan, 11, has always learned pretty quickly, said his mother, Cindy.

The sixth-grader at Milburn School taught himself to read at age 3, Cindy said. His favorite author was Mark Twain. And math and science always came easily to him.

So the fact that Danny takes honors classes at Antioch Community High School, is a member of the school's math team, and is on his way to Taiwan soon as a Young Physics Ambassador for the American Association of Physics Teachers come as no surprise to his parents.

"It's very interesting to see people's reactions to all this," Cindy said. "For us it's normal, and it's weird to see that outside the family he's considered different."

Danny is in his second year of classes at ACHS, this year taking honors chemistry, algebra II and world civilization.

Danny attends ACHS classes in the morning and returns to Milburn in the afternoon, said Jim McKay, assistant principal of ACHS. He stays at Milburn mostly to be able to keep in touch with friends his own age.

When Danny was in fifth grade, his standardized test scores led Milburn officials to offer him the opportunity to take classes at ACHS, he said.

"I was glad," Danny said. "I wasn't learning very much."

He took honors geometry and physics last school year, McKay said. And along with getting used to high

Hand crafted with care

By Tara Clifton
Staff Reporter

Kim Connelly came from a family of artists, but she never considered herself artistic.

"I thought I was gypped on that gene," Connelly joked.

But a trip to California led to a discovery that proved her wrong.

A little over a year ago, Connelly and her husband traveled to California, their first adventure without their two children, ages five and six.

The couple was shopping when some jewelry caught her eye, Connelly said. She wondered if she could make something like that, so when she got home, she gave it a shot.

It turned out she was pretty crafty after all. From that vacation Ludowise Hand-Crafted Jewelry was born. Connelly started out by making jewelry mostly for family and friends, but the business is growing.

From the end of October until now, Connelly said she has had 70 to 75 orders and participated in six events, which range from home jewelry parties to craft fairs and fundraisers.

Connelly will exhibit her merchandise from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. Dec. 17 at Remembering When Scrapbooking at 1482 N. Route 83, or Main Street.

Connelly creates earrings, necklaces, bracelets and anklets from a variety of beads, stones and wires. If she is artistically inspired, Connelly can string together a piece of jewelry in 15 minutes. For custom-ordered pieces, she can have an item done in about 45 minutes.

Either way, Connelly said she feels blessed she has found something that fulfills her.

"It's so much fun," she said. "It's my creative outlet and my girly thing," with living with a husband and two sons.

As her children grew older, they became less demanding, and Connelly said she wondered how she was going to fill her growing free time.

"I was getting that stay-at-home mom itch, and this fell into my lap and it's perfect," she said.

Connelly said she can work on jewelry when her children are playing or sleeping. And she keeps a relaxed attitude while on the job.

"It's a fun, comfortable thing with no pressure," Connelly said. She said she rarely gives sales pitches, preferring that customers shop at their own pace.

Kim Connelly created Ludowise Hand-Crafted Jewelry after being inspired by a similar store on a vacation to California.

She works mostly through home parties, very similar to Mary Kay events.

The parties range in size, and the women "feed off each other" making Connelly's job very easy, she said. Once one woman tries on a necklace or bracelet, the others want it, too.

"It doesn't feel like a business to me," she said. "It's just what I do, and it's fun to be able to share it with people."

Being able to have fun while making money isn't bad at all, though, Connelly joked.

For more information you can contact Kim Connelly by e-mail at kim@ludowise.com or call 847-838-2311.

You can order from her collection or request a special design.

If things get better with age, this woman has lots to celebrate

Libertyville manor resident turns 105

By Rebecca Klugiewicz
Staff Reporter

Ida Kufalk has a lot to celebrate. Last Friday was her 105th birthday. She celebrated with friends, family members and former students at Libertyville Manor, a nursing home.

She was born on Dec. 9, 1900 in Salem, Wis. to Robert and Alma Runyard. The eldest of three children, she lived on a farm on Route 59. The nearest school was about three miles away and she couldn't attend until she was six or seven. Her parents were afraid of wolves in the area, so she had to wait until her brother was old enough to go with her. She eventually attended Antioch High School, graduating in 1919 as a member of the first class to spend all four years at the school.

She received her teaching certificate following a six-week summer college course in DeKalb and taught at schools Millburn, Antioch, Grass Lake and Channel Lake from 1919 to 1926 and again from 1944 until her retirement in 1962. She taught grades one through eight at different times and instructed in all subjects.

Her break in the middle of her teaching career was because of marriage. In 1927 she married Roy Kufalk. He worked as the postmaster in Antioch until he retired in 1965. He died in 1977. Their son Bob was born in 1929 and daughter Verna was born in 1931. Verna died of cancer several years ago, but her widower Don still visits often. "He takes care of me now. I couldn't get along without him," Kufalk said.

Her son Bob also continues to visit. He said his mother has a positive attitude and is an amazing person. "I think really the fondest thing is how well she aged," he said. She is without major health problems and still walks on her own, usually refusing to use a wheelchair. Janelle

Ida Kufalk blows out the candles on her cake for her 105th birthday with the help of Libertyville Manor Activities Director Maria Hristoforatos and children from the nursing facility's adjacent Young at Heart day care center. Kufalk has lived most of her life in the Antioch area.

Thomas, the unit supervisor at the nursing home, said Kufalk is a joy to work with. "She has an absolutely wonderful, rare appreciation for life," she said.

The secret to Kufalk's long life is hard work. "Nobody could have worked harder than me," she said. Jen Holem, Kufalk's great-granddaughter, is amazed by her grandmother. "She's still so sharp at 105," she said. Kufalk has eight grandchildren and 22 great grandchildren.

Kufalk loves history, particularly regarding presidents. William McKinley was the president of the United States when she was born. The first president she remembers as a child was Woodrow Wilson. She said people knew little about national government because there were no televisions. "At that time we didn't know what was going on," she said.

She is an avid reader, going through stacks of books. She especially likes books about presidents and biographies. Reading the newspaper is part of her daily routine. A huge Chicago Cubs fan, she misses her favorite player. "I liked them when Sammy Sosa was there. I miss Sammy!" Kufalk also enjoys "The Price is Right," jelly beans and loves it when her friends and family members visit.

Determined to spend her 99th birthday in her home, she moved into Libertyville Manor from Antioch the day after that birthday. "The people here are so nice," she said. She is still a member of United Methodist Church in Antioch.

Since she moved in, Libertyville Manor has given her a birthday party each year. This year, former student Marge Holem of McHenry joined in on the festivities. Kufalk taught Holem in fifth grade. She said her teacher was strict but good at what she did. "We always paid attention in her class," she said. Her mother and aunt, identical twins, were also taught by Kufalk. "She used to put a pink ribbon and a blue ribbon on them to tell them apart and they'd switch the ribbons," she said. Kufalk still remembers those students, so many years later.

Although Kufalk said she never planned on living so long, her great-granddaughter is not surprised. "I've always said since I was a little girl she would outlive all of us," Holem said.

District 34 conducts self-evaluation

By Tara Clifton
Staff Reporter

People often say there is always room for self-improvement, but Antioch School District 34 board members have taken this saying to heart.

Board members conducted a self-evaluation to create goals that will help improve communication between board members and administration officials, said Scott Thompson, superintendent of the district.

The evaluation also aimed to help board members work better as a team.

"You want to make sure when you spend time together you don't get caught up in minutia," Thompson said, "and strive to work as a team."

The evaluation came in the form of a survey the Illinois Association of School Boards offered, called the Board Governance Review. A representative came to administer the survey, and afterwards the results were discussed, a process that took roughly two to three hours, Thompson said.

From there, goals were created that the board plans on implementing as soon as possible.

"This was a way for board members to grow professionally and gave them an opportunity to improve themselves," Thompson said.

The evaluation was made possible through a grant provided by the Illinois State Board of Education, said Gary Volling, board vice president. The grant was awarded to help District 34 and other schools improve their efficiency.

After compiling the evaluation's results, board members assembled three goals, Volling said.

First, when new board members arrive, an orientation is needed to familiarize them with procedures, Volling said. This is especially close to home for board members because many of them have not been members for very long. Volling himself has only been a member for two years, he said.

The board also hopes to examine policies and make sure the district is following them, Volling said.

Board members also want to make administration job requirements more clear, so officials know what the board expects of them, Volling said.

The first and third goals will be implemented the next time new staff and board members arrive.

"These things are not a real problem," Volling said. "But we want to make sure our expectations are in line, that we're all on the same page. We want to make sure we're continually improving."

Fire Department wants you to stay safe

The Antioch Fire Department wants community members to stay safe during the cold months.

Keeping fire hydrants, access routes and address markings clear of snow is imperative to enable rescue workers to provide immediate emergency assistance. Fire officials ask residents to sweep snow away from these important markers, keeping an area of about four feet clear around fire hydrants.

Safety needs to be kept in mind when shoveling snow: Avoid caffeine or nicotine before beginning, drink plenty of water during work, and dress in layers. Warm up muscles before shoveling and make sure to pick the right shovel for you.

Road safety is also a top concern. Before driving, clear all snow and ice from vehicle windows, including front and rear lights. Drive slowly, making sure to avoid quick stops, starts and turns. Keep a distance from the vehicle in front of you, and watch out for icy intersections, hills and curves.

If your vehicle slides on a patch of ice, press firmly on the brake if you have an anti-lock braking system. If you don't have ABS, brake firmly until a point just short of lock-up, then ease off slightly. And always remember to buckle up.

For more information, call the Antioch Fire Department at 847-395-5511.

Showing heart for the holidays

Residents of Antioch and Lake County are doing many good things, and they deserve some recognition for their hard work and dedication. Without further ado:

Culver's restaurants and community members deserve a huge pat on the back. Because of the efforts of residents and Culver's, more low-income families will be able to stay warmer this winter than they would have otherwise. The third-annual Day of Warmth raised $3,300 for those in need in Lake County, said a Culver's spokeswoman. Eight restaurants participated, located in Gurnee, Buffalo Grove, Antioch, Grayslake, Island Lake, Lake Zurich, Libertyville and Zion. Statewide, more than $26,000 was raised. Funds were garnered via canister donations at the restaurants and through a percentage of sales on Nov. 15. The Day of Warmth event, seeking to help those who can't afford the cost of heat, included 14 states, raising a total of $250,000. Amazing work!

Congratulations go out to Elizabeth C. Whitehurst, an Antioch Community High School class of 2004 graduate. Elizabeth was inducted into the Colgate University Class of 2008 chapter of Phi Eta Sigma, a national scholastic honorary society. The organization recognizes first-year college students who earn a grade point average of 3.5 or above. Elizabeth is now a sophomore at Colgate, in Hamilton, N.Y. She was honored with 243 other society members, at a banquet in November. Her parents, John S. and Susan A. Whitehurst of Lake Villa, should be very proud of their daughter.

The top award for Antioch's Holiday Lights this year goes out to dwellers of The Arbors of Windmill Creek, said Barbara Porch, chamber president and village board member. "There were many houses in there that were just delightful," Porch said of the neighborhood's Christmas lights displays. "They certainly deserve bragging rights," which is the contest prize. Other neighborhoods worthy of mention were Pine Hill Lakes, Heron Harbor and the homes along Plum Tree Street near Jewel Osco. Five neighborhoods participated in the annual contest. For a highly enjoyable holiday family outing, take the kids for a drive through these neighborhoods. They'll get a kick out of the creative light displays.

Hit and run

Keith G. Kruzel, 19, of 21411 N. Brentwood, Round Lake Beach, was arrested by Lake Villa Police on Dec. 6, at 5:10 p.m., following an accident involving his black 1989 Toyota Corolla on the 200 block of E. Grand Avenue. At 3:06 p.m. that day, a couple arrived home to find skid marks from the road to the house, as well as damage to a meter box. The suspect and his vehicle were located at Butera. The car had damage consistent with an accident. At first, the driver denied the accident, then, when confronted with evidence, admitted hitting the house. He was charged with leaving the scene of an accident, failure to leave information and driving an uninsured motor vehicle. He was released pending appearance in Round Lake Beach Branch III court on Jan. 11, at 1:30 p.m.

No valid driver's license

Jessica F. Martinez, 18, of 151 E. Grand Ave., Lake Villa, was arrested by Lake Villa Police on Nov. 29, at 3:51 p.m., while driving westbound on Route 132 near Oak Lane. She was observed crossing over the fog line. She was charged with improper lane use, no valid driver's license and driving an uninsured motor vehicle. She was served a notice to appear in Round Lake Beach Branch III court on Jan. 11, at 1:30 p.m.

Driving with a suspended license

Steven M. Vaughn, 27, of 160 Rose Tree

Lane, Lindenhurst, was arrested by Lake Villa Police on Dec. 5, at 8:22 p.m., while driving a silver 2005 Dodge Magnum northbound on Route 83 near the Petite Lake Road bridge. He had no license and said he was driving on a ticket for DUI. He was charged with driving with a suspended license and driving an uninsured motor vehicle. He was served a notice to appear in Round Lake Beach Branch III court on Jan. 11, at 1:30 p.m.

Edwin J. Quest, 26, of 16165 W. route 173, Zion, was arrested by Lake Villa Police on Dec. 1, at 1:52 a.m., while driving a green 1993 Plymouth Sundance northbound on Route 83 near the Petite Lake Road bridge. He was charged with improper lighting and driving with a suspended license. He was served a notice to appear in Round Lake Beach Branch III court on Jan. 11, at 1:30 p.m.

Theft

Between 7 p.m. on Dec. 7 and 8:40 a.m. on Dec. 8, six boxes of flowers, valued at about $500, were stolen from outside of Laura's Flower Shop at 300 N. Milwaukee Avenue. The flowers had been left outside to keep them fresh.

LINDENHURST

No valid driver's license

Raphael C. Valenzuela, 33, of 1800 Fayette Walk, Hoffman Estates, was arrested by Lindenhurst Police on Dec. 2, at 1:54 a.m., while driving a black 2001 BMW SUV eastbound on Route 132 near Route 45. He was observed crossing the lane divider. He was charged with improper lane use and driving with no valid driver's license. He was released on a $1,000 bond pending appearance in Round Lake Beach Branch III court on Jan. 4, at 1:30 p.m.

Driving with a suspended license

Marie A. Kohler, 61, of 582 Phillips Circle, Antioch, was arrested by Lindenhurst Police on Dec. 3, at 2:29 p.m., while driving a blue 1997 Chevrolet Cavalier eastbound on Route 132 near Route 45. The front plate was for a Mazda, while the back plate was a temporary license for the Chevrolet. The driver's license had been suspended three times for bail violations. She was charged with improper display of registration, failure to wear a seat belt, driving an uninsured motor vehicle and driving with a suspended license. She was released on a $2,000 bond pending appearance in Round Lake Beach Branch III court on Jan. 4, at 10:30 a.m.

Jayme T. Inman, 21, of 10211 80th Place, Pleasant Prairie, Wis., was arrested by Lindenhurst Police on Dec. 3, at 12:07 a.m., while in a silver 1997 Chevrolet Camaro in the parking lot of Floor Décor, at 1870 E. Grand Ave. The driver had an accident in the parking lot. Police found his license had been suspended in Wisconsin. He was charged with failure to yield and driving with a suspended license. He was released on a $1,000 bond pending appearance in Round Lake Beach Branch III court on Jan. 4, at 10:30 a.m.

DUI ARRESTS

The following people have been arrested for driving under the influence of alcohol or drugs

ANTIOCH

Derek R. Schleser, 21, of 2521 Hamilton in Lindenhurst is scheduled to appear in court at 9 a.m. Jan. 3 on charges of speeding, improper lane usage, no rear light, driving uninsured, driving under the influence and DUI with a blood alcohol content over the .08 legal limit.

Around 2:08 a.m. Dec. 8, at the intersection of Route 83 and Poplar in Antioch, police stopped Schleser, driving a green 1997 Cadillac Catera. Schleser's first breath test showed a BAC of .136.

Jesus J. Martinez, 31, 10320 264th Ave. in Trevor, Wis., is scheduled to appear in the Round Lake Beach Court at 9 a.m. Jan. 11. Police pulled over Martinez, driving a red 1988 Toyota truck, around 4:48 a.m. Dec. 7 at the intersection of Route 83 and Poplar. He was ticketed for having only one red brake light, driving without a valid driver's license and failure to signal.

Amanda L. Levine, 21, 33308 Bohner

in Burlington, Wis., will appear in the Grayslake court at 10:30 a.m. Jan. 25 on charges of disobeying a traffic light and driving without a valid driver's license. Police stopped Levine around 12:41 p.m. Dec. 13 at the intersection of Route 83 and North Ave. Levine was arrested on released on a recognizance bond pending her court date.

LAKE VILLA

Daniel R. Gutierrez, 37, of 2361 N. Scott Court, Round Lake, was arrested by Lake Villa Police on Dec. 8, at 3:42 a.m., while driving a lavender 1995 Dodge Neon southbound on Route 83 near Hampton Drive. The car appeared to have been in a recent accident, but the driver did not recall it. He failed field sobriety tests, and a breath test yielded a result of .281 BAC. He was charged with DUI and DUI over .08 BAC. He was released on a $3,000 I-bond pending appearance in Waukegan courtroom C-402, on Jan. 6, at 9 a.m.

Cops, kids shop 'til they drop

By Tara Clifton
Staff Reporter

Letting 45 kids with $100 each loose in Wal-Mart may seem like a risky idea, but for Antioch police officers, it's a great way to have fun.

The Antioch Police Department's second annual Shop with a Cop program Dec. 21 will pair officers with children and their families to scour Wal-Mart for gifts and other items.

Police have asked officials in school district 34 to find families who could use a little extra help this holiday season to participate.

"We're looking for kids who don't even have a Christmas tree for Christmas," said Commander James Foerster of the Antioch Police Department.

The day will begin at the Antioch Police Department with pizza and soda, along with a tour of the station. Then the group will go the Wal-Mart Supercenter in Antioch for their $100 shopping extravaganza, with one officer per family, Foerster said.

The 45 participants will be split in half, with each half shopping at a different time, Foerster said.

Police officers enjoy spending time with the children's parents as much as the kids, Foerster said.

"It's a lot of fun walking around with the family," he said. Foerster participated in the program in Round Lake once. "And that's the fun part of it. They get to know us a bit and it breaks down barriers."

This year's program is sponsored by Raymond Chevrolet, Wal-Mart Supercenter of Antioch, the Antioch Rotary Club and the Antioch Fraternal Order of Police.

FORCES

"A lot of them enjoy reading," Stampfl said. "They get very excited about it. There's a lot of good young adult literature out there, you just have to know about it."

A total of 249 Library Services and Technology Act grants were awarded statewide, totaling $4 million. The money was awarded with the intent of enabling libraries to enhance their collections, strengthen community relationships, develop digital imaging projects and implement programs, such as this area's promotion of teen reading.

"It's important that libraries work together," Stampfl said. "We're part of a community of a whole."

And the sooner young people learn how to navigate area libraries, the better, she said.

"Many end up living here, so it's important we're all doing the same thing to promote reading," Stampfl said.

And even if teenagers end up living elsewhere, librarians still have a duty to help them, Hudson said.

"They're the future and we need to meet their information needs," she said.

SPOTLIGHT

However, the promise is evident. The site contains many links, enabling users to submit recommendations, news and more.

Corey tinkers with the site nearly every day, when he's not working his day job at a local hotel. "There's still a lot to do with the site," he said.

He's also looking for writers who are willing to work for free but able to share their passion for music. Visitors can post reviews also, as little or as often as they want.

Corey does have a small army, though. Along with several comrades, his roommate (who asked that her name not be used) co-hosts the radio program with him, and will write reviews. Corey's friend Evan Jacob of Phoenix, Ariz., has already written several reviews.

Corey said he took several courses at College of Lake County about Internet design, and taught himself the basics of HTML programming. He hopes his efforts have paid off.

"We want to provide a place people can get familiar with many artists," Corey said. "It's a hub for everyone to enjoy music wherever they are."

school classes, Danny and ACHS students became acquainted with each other.

"They really like him," McKay said. "They look at him like a little brother, but also with some intrigue."

And even though Danny can't compete on the ACHS math team because he is underaged, he still goes to practices and enjoys learning how to solve different problems with his teammates.

"They treat me like a normal kid," he said. "The kids are nice."

Cindy said Danny does all the normal "kid" things, such as playing video games religiously, going to Boy Scout meetings and obsessing over his Christmas wish list.

McKay, though, said he hopes ACHS students will learn something from Danny's unusual academic gifts.

"They can see it's OK to be an academic wizard," McKay said. "I can only hope his interest in academia rubs off on them."

Building, building as fast as he can...

John Edgell rules as the Gingerbread Man

Photos by Sandy Bressner

For 20 years, John Edgell has constructed houses out of cookies, candy canes, chocolate and sprinkles of love. The 49-year-old Antioch resident builds elaborate gingerbread houses every holiday in hopes of brightening the lives of others. Hundreds of his homes have stood in area hospitals, orphanages and homes over the years. Some have been edible and some have not, but each one has been appreciated. Edgell currently has one of his larger houses set up at the Library Lane Senior Residence building in Grayslake, where he works as senior apartment maintenance supervisor. After months of gradual preparation, the home took several days to construct and decorate. Here is an account of how the job was done.

Tuesday, Dec. 6: It is 12:30 p.m. at Library Lane and the bare bones of Edgell's house are standing on a 8-by-6-foot table. The frame is made from pink foam with a space through the center so that a train may pass through. Decorations are everywhere, Christmas carols are playing and Edgell is working, working, working.

This house stands 8-feet high and already portions of it have been decorated. Red and green pieces of puffed rice edge the corners, candy canes have been mounted and frosting is flying. There are tiny "windows" displaying elves and rocking horses all around the building and senior residence members are watching Edgell work his magic.

Though the architect used to build mostly edible gingerbread houses, one this size is not suited for eating of any kind, said Edgell. It will just last longer with a solid base, he said.

GINGERBREAD

"Using this method the house stays up for months. At one time it was 100 percent edible, but you don't want to do that anymore," he said "This one will probably stay up until January."

A collection to fund Edgell's house was gathered throughout the year. The total project costs more than $500. A nearby donation jar has already accumulated a few dollars.

3:15 p.m.: It is just several hours later, but a huge difference can be seen at the house. Hundreds of cookies have been stuck onto its walls and the smell of sweetness is overwhelming.

While Edgell slathers white frosting onto his creation he discusses the project. A senior residence member snags a cookie.

"They all like it," he says. "It gives them something to brag about in their building. The moment someone complains about it, I'll stop doing it."

To complete his masterpiece, Edgell purchases a lot of supplies. He carries a typed list with him during construction.

Before starting, he buys 100 eggs, more than 40 pounds of powdered sugar, 1,200 assorted cookies, 200 gingerbread men, 200 candy canes, 150 holiday decorations, 200 different candies and lots of chocolate.

At this time, $7.50 sits in his collection jar.

7:15 p.m.: Outside it is freezing cold, but inside it is warm and Edgell is working away. More cookies have been added, snowmen are racing down the home's rooftop and "Jingle Bell Rock" is playing.

There is a problem, however. Edgell is running out of frosting.

"There has to be something different about the sugar or the egg whites," he says. "I've never used more than 50 pounds of sugar. Now, I'm definitely in the red."

Though he knows he's short on supplies, he still thinks the house will be completed by morning. When he starts working on his gingerbread house, he very rarely stops.

"I'm a little behind," he says. "But what the heck?"

A residence mentions in passing how her children come to look at the house each year and have their picture taken by it. Edgell said that people have even put his houses on Christmas cards.

After almost 12 hours of frosting and placing cookies onto his gingerbread house, John Edgell has many hours of work to go.

"Even the garbage man is excited," he says.

Wednesday, Dec. 7, 8:30 a.m.: "To make a long story short, I definitely did not finish last night," says Edgell. "To my surprise, I ran out of egg whites at about 11:30 p.m."

The project continues.

2:25 p.m.: Back on task and it is all coming together now. Edgell is perched on a 6-foot ladder placing gingerbread men on his building. Pretzels have been placed on as well and what was once a barren skeleton of a house is now looking quite appetizing.

The home's base has been decorated with numerous goodies and motorized holiday figures are waving their hands in the air.

The collection jar had to be emptied so that Edgell could purchase more sugar and supplies. Still, $3.50 sits inside of it.

"It looks great, John," says one woman as she walks on by.

Monday, Dec. 12, 1:32 p.m.: Though supply shortages and winter weather kept Edgell from completing his house on schedule, the finished product looks absolutely amazing.

Every inch of the structure is decorated with edible or holiday item. Elves, nutcrackers and Christmas trees are everywhere.

It is another successful year, and Library Lane residents will have the chance to enjoy the gingerbread house through January.

Edgell will get a chance to relax.

Holiday cranberry recipe from Nigella Lawson takes the cake

Tom Witom

COOKING BY THE BOOK

Seasonal songs and traditional decorations underscore that the holidays are upon us, but they only tell part of the story. Thanks to the transforming baking aromas and delectable goodies emanating from the kitchen this time of year, there can be no doubt about it.

New York Times food columnist Nigella Lawson, in her newest book, "How To Be a Domestic Goddess" (Hyperion, 2005), shares a wealth of mouthwatering recipes for every occasion: cakes, cookies, scones, pies, breads and desserts. She offers a tempting marzipan fruit-cake, a chocolate chestnut cake, a "millionaire's" shortbread and many other treats.

In a chapter on Christmas, Lawson presents a new twist on cranberries: in an upside-down cake. Not only is this dish a snap to prepare, it makes for happy eating. And it looks good, too, as Lawson exclaims: "I love the Christmasiness of this, all that glowing, berried redness."

Cranberry Upside-Down Cake

Scant 3/4 cup unsalted butter

1 cup sugar

3/4 or 6 ounces cranberries

3/4 cup self-rising cake flour

Pinch of salt

1 tsp. cinnamon

2 large eggs

One and one-half tbl. whole milk

Tarte-tatin dish, cast-iron straight-sided 8-in. frying pan, or similar Preheat the oven to 350 degrees F, and put in a baking sheet to heat up at the same time.

Put the cast-iron frying pan — or tarte-tatin dish if you've got one — on the burner over a medium heat and melt the one-quarter cup of butter. Add one-half cup of sugar, stir, then empty in the cranberries and turn to coat in the syrupy liquid. Set aside while you get on with the cake.

Put the flour, salt, cinnamon, remaining sugar, one-half cup of butter and the eggs in the processor and blitz to combine. Pulse while you add enough milk down the funnel to make a batter of a soft, dropping consistency. Pour it over the berries in the pan and transfer immediately to the heated baking sheet in the oven. Cook for 30 minutes or until the cake is bouncy, gold and risen and beginning to shrink back from the edges.

Take out of the oven and place a plate on top of the pan. Turn upside-down and lift the pan off. Be careful here — it's easy to burn yourself.

Serve warm with crème fraîche or ice cream. Serves 6.

CHERRY POUND CAKE

Prep Time: 25 minutes

Makes one (10-inch) cake

1 1/4 cups butter, softened

2 3/4 cups sugar

5 eggs

1 teaspoon vanilla extract

3 cups all-purpose flour

1 teaspoon baking powder

1/4 teaspoon salt

1 (14-ounce) can Eagle Brand Sweetened Condensed Milk (not evaporated milk), divided

2 cups quartered maraschino cherries, well drained, reserving 1/3 cup juice

Powdered sugar or Chocolate Frosting (recipe follows)

1. In large bowl with electric mixer, beat butter, sugar, eggs and vanilla on low speed until blended, then on high speed 5 minutes until light and fluffy.

2. Combine flour, baking powder and salt. Add dry ingredients alternately with 1/2 cup sweetened condensed milk to creamed mixture, mixing lightly after each addition.

3. Fold in cherries. Turn batter into greased and floured 10-inch bundt or tube pan.

4. Bake at 350° F for 55 minutes. Cover loosely with foil, shiny side out; continue baking for 15 to 20 minutes or until toothpick inserted near center comes out clean.

5. Let cool in pan 5 minutes; invert cake onto rack and let cool completely.

6. Dust with powdered sugar just before serving or, spoon Chocolate Frosting over cooled cake. Store leftovers covered.

*Chocolate Frosting: In medium saucepan, combine remaining sweetened condensed milk with 2 (1-ounce) squares unsweetened chocolate. Cook and stir over low heat until chocolate melts and mixture is thickened. Stir in cherry juice.

Easy, Enjoyable Meals

Here's a holiday tradition that many families are happy to start: finding time amidst all the hustle and bustle to sit down to a good meal together. Fortunately, this may be easier to achieve than many people realize.

For example, keep items such as smoked sausage, canned and frozen vegetables, quick rice mixes and refrigerated potatoes on hand for fast but filling meals. These products can be used to help cut time needed for meal preparation whenever your schedule is full.

Hearty and savory smoked sausage will satisfy your entire family. In fact, smoked sausage can come in handy when planning and preparing meals during the holidays because it is fully cooked and ready to use for quick and easy meal options:

- Prepare your favorite rice mix (such as jambalaya), then stir in sliced smoked sausage. Heat through for a complete meal in 30 minutes.

- Serve smoked sausage alongside refrigerated mashed potatoes for a truly quick meal.

- Add sliced smoked sausage to a Quick Stuffing Mix and pair with your favorite frozen vegetable for an instant meal.

- Stir sliced smoked sausage into prepared macaroni and cheese, then heat through for a one pot meal that is quick, satisfying, delicious and minimizes clean-up time, too.

- Have breakfast for dinner by adding diced smoked sausage to scrambled eggs for a surprise dinner any night of the week.

Create this great sausage dish in about 15 minutes:

Smoked Sausage Italiano

Preparation Time: 15 minutes
Serves 4

1 lb. Hillshire Farm Polska Kielbasa (or any variety smoked sausage) cut into 1/4 inch medallions
1 jar (6 oz.) sliced mushrooms
1 can (14.5 oz.) diced tomatoes, Italian style with basil, garlic & oregano
4 oz. extra-thin spaghetti, cooked
Salt and pepper to taste
Cheese, optional

In a nonstick skillet, saute sausage and mushrooms for 2-3 minutes. Remove from heat, add tomatoes. Toss tomato mixture and hot pasta. Season to taste. Top with your favorite cheese. Serve immediately.

Secretly Simple

HOLIDAY DINING

With the hustle and bustle of the holidays, it can feel like days, even weeks, go by without sitting down to dinner with your family. Entice them back to the table this holiday season, with a meal that is elegant enough to serve to company, but simple enough to prepare for the family on a busy weeknight.

These delicious recipes look and taste like you've been in the kitchen for hours, but don't worry, we won't tell your secret. They're created by using versatile pantry staples — including pouches of 100% Idaho mashed potatoes (so you don't have to spend time peeling), and a frozen asset you'll always want keep on hand — grain-fed, well-marbled, tender Midwestern beef. With these items, you can make almost any night "secretly simple."

Everyone loves appetizers that feel like party food — these savory mushroom caps are perfect to pass around as the meal is cooking. Or, for those really chilly nights, serve creamy roasted garlic potato soup. Your family will surely ooh and ahh as you present them with the main course of sizzling hot filet mignons, drizzled with wine sauce and served with festive green beans and the classic companion to a steak — buttery mashed potatoes. After dinner, wow the kids with a moist chocolate cake. With all of these quick and tasty recipes, you might actually need to remind everyone to save room for dessert!

Green Beans With Butter and Lemon

pinch of baking soda

1 1/2 pounds fresh green beans, ends snipped

1/4 pound butter

1/2 cup diced (3/8 inch) red pepper juice and zest of 2 lemons

1 teaspoon sea salt

1. In boiling water with pinch of baking soda, cook green beans to desired doneness.
2. Drain beans, then toss with butter, red pepper, lemon juice, lemon zest and sea salt. Serve immediately.

Yield: 6 servings

Filet Mignon With Cabernet Potato Butter Sauce

6 (7-ounce) Omaha Steaks

Filet Mignons, grilled

Sauce:

2 teaspoons plus 1 pound

unsalted butter, divided

1/4 cup finely minced shallots

3 cups Cabernet Sauvignon

(about one 750ml bottle)

1/2 cup dry Idahoan Buttery

Homestyle Mashed Potatoes

1 teaspoon kosher salt

1. In small stainless steel saucepan, place 2 teaspoons butter and shallots. Sauté briefly, until shallots are transparent.

2. Add wine.

3. Over high heat, reduce liquid by half (cooking about 10 minutes).

4. Reduce heat to low and stir in dry mashed potatoes. Cook and stir

1 minute.

5. Cut 1 pound butter into 1/2-ounce cubes.

6. Over low heat, add butter cubes to sauce 1 at a time while continually whisking. If sauce gets too hot and starts to get thin or separate, add more butter cubes to cool it down. If sauce starts to cool down and get thick, let it heat up before adding another cube. Keep between 100°-120°F.

7. Season with salt.

8. Serve immediately over grilled steaks or hold at 100°-120°F in double boiler. Complete the meal with Green Beans With Butter and Lemon (recipe below) plus prepared Idahoan mashed potatoes using remainder of the pouch for the sauce, with one additional pouch.

Yield: 6 servings

Potato Chocolate Cake

1 cup margarine or shortening

2 cups sugar

4 eggs

3 squares chocolate, melted

1 teaspoon vanilla extract

1 cup cold, prepared Idahoan

Original Mashed Potatoes

2 cups flour, sifted

1 teaspoon baking soda

1 teaspoon salt

3/4 cup buttermilk

1 tub chocolate frosting

1. Preheat oven to 375°F.

2. Cream together margarine or shortening and sugar. Beat in eggs one at a time.

3. Stir in melted chocolate and vanilla. Add mashed potatoes and mix well.

4. Combine flour, baking soda and salt. Add this sifted, dry mix alternately to batter with buttermilk. Blend well with each addition.

5. Grease and flour baking pans. Distribute batter evenly between three 9-inch layer pans. Bake 20 minutes.

6. Frost with favorite chocolate frosting. Garnish as desired.

Variation: For Chocolate Spice Cake, add 1 teaspoon each cinnamon and allspice to sifted dry mix. One cup raisins or nuts also may be added.

Yield: 12 servings

On Stage Strong Marriott cast puts fresh face on lively 'Oliver!'

By Tom Witom

Charles Dickens incorporated the cruelty and injustice of 19th century London into the centerpiece of his explosive – and heart-rending – novel, "Oliver Twist." It was a time that such dehumanizing institutions as workhouses were in full force and grim orphanages were filled with ill-fed and poorly cared for children.

"Oliver!", Lionel Bart's musical adaptation of Dickens' classic that made its Broadway debut in 1963, completely captures the essence of the story while at the same time offers a catchy, inspired score whose infectious tunes include "Food, Glorious Food," "I'll Do Anything," "Consider Yourself" and "Pick a Pocket or Two," among others.

It's in very good hands at the Marriott Theatre in Lincolnshire, under David H. Bell, director and choreographer. Ryan T. Nelson handles music direction.

Careful lighting, outstanding Victorian costumes, drop-down props and strategically placed background scenery help overcome the restrictions that often make staging such a production difficult in a theater-in-the-round setting. However, Bell's occasional inclusion of a Dickens-like narrator seems not only odd but a totally unnecessary distraction.

Nevertheless, Bell has put together a fine cast – one of the largest in recent memory – led by veteran actor Greg Vinkler as the unscrupulous and miserly overseer of a den of thieves. Best known for his quality work with Chicago Shakespeare, Vinkler adds depth to his character.

The story kicks off with a young boy, Oliver (an angelic-voiced seventh grader from Naperville, Michael Notardonato), is cruelly expelled from an orphanage after he asked for a second helping of gruel. The scheming beadle, Mr. Bumble (Michael Linder), decides to get rid of the budding troublemaker and make a profit at the same time by selling Oliver as an undertaker's apprentice.

But Oliver quickly escapes that fate only to fall into the clutches of a gang of young miscreants. Soon after circumstances lead him to find his real family, though the gang of thieves is loathe to release him from their clutches.

Kate Fry sings up a storm and pours her heart out as Nancy, the barmaid who sticks by her abusive thug of a boyfriend, the no-account Bill Sykes (darkly played by Martin Yurek). Matt Rafferty, as the Artful Dodger, demonstrates the fine art of pick pocketing.

But there are other wicked folk in this story besides the obvious felons who put self-interest ahead of social responsibility: Bumble, of course, and his aide-de-camp, the Widow Corney (Marilyn Bogetich); the undertaker and his hard-bitten wife, nicely etched by Jeff Kuhl and Carol Kuykendall.

All in all, this smart "Oliver!" stands up to the test of time.

Teddy bears lift spirits in Lake County

Doreen Lagoni likes to circulate. Over the course of her career Lagoni spent nine years working in this newspaper's circulation department. But for the last six years the retiree has been delivering comforting hugs to traumatized youngsters and lonely seniors in Lake County.

Doreen's special messengers are warm, fuzzy teddy bears she distributes through her nonprofit charity, Bear Magic in Lake County. Her organization is one of 10,000 worldwide chapters—or "dens"—of Good Bears of the World. Good Bears was founded in 1973 by American journalist James T. Ownby to provide teddy bears to social service agencies serving needy children and the elderly.

If one appreciate the magical healing power of these stuffed bears. Our two boys were better able to cope with their adoption thanks to the donated teddy bears they clutched in their arms. Our sons are now teenagers, but their bears still watch over them.

As for Lagoni, she logs over 500 miles a month just delivering teddy bears to more than 133 agencies in Lake County, like Staben House in Waukegan, Mano-A-Mano in Round Lake Park, and the Lake County Health Department, as well as many area hospitals, police and fire departments. The bears are then given to children under stress due to accidents, injuries, disability, or domestic violence, or to forgotten seniors, such as during the annual "Teddy Bear Tea" at Winchester House in Libertyville.

Lagoni has been recognized by the Lake County Circuit Court for her donation of over 2,700 bears to their "Kids Korner" since 1999. The Special Education District of Lake County, represented by Thomas E. Bartels, principal of Laremont School and Gail Lantvit, principal of Gages Lake School,

Leslie Glazier-Werner

praises Bear Magic for offering their students "the promise of hope—there is no better promise than that."

The grateful acknowledgements go on and on.

But Doreen's work can't continue without monetary support. While national efforts are focused on the recent natural disasters, Bear Magic is also in need of funding to continue its compassionate efforts locally.

Doreen says donations to Bear Magic are tax deductible, and any amount is appreciated. Lagoni also hopes local businesses and other organizations will consider sponsoring Bear Magic in Lake County. Finally, she thanks donors—her "Bear Angels"—for fulfilling her selfless retirement dream: "putting the comfort of a teddy bear into the arms of every traumatized child or lonely, forgotten senior in Lake County."

World famous toy roadshow coming to Waukegan

The International Toy Collectors Association Toy Roadshow is coming to the Ramada Inn Waukegan on Jan. 4 to 7 from 9 a.m. to 7 p.m.

There will be association representatives of more than 5,400 toy collectors there to appraise your antique toys.

The Ramada Inn Waukegan is located at 200 N. Green Bay Road in Waukegan.

Eve Ensler opening new show 'The Good Body' at suburban theater

Eve Ensler will be opening her new show, "The Good Body" on Tuesday, Feb. 28 at 7:30 p.m. at the North Shore Center for Performing Arts, 9501 Skokie Blvd. in Skokie. After a critically acclaimed run on Broadway, she is bringing this provocatively moving performance to a local theater.

Eve ignited a movement that has exploded into a global phenomenon through her first triumph, the Vagina Monologues. Now she's back, with a show both uproarious and insightful. In "The Good Body," Eve takes an inside look at the outside, exploring the cultures of beauty, food and desire through the eyes of women around the world.

Chicago Foundation for Women will host this opening night performance of "The Good Body." "We are proud to be part of presenting Eve's new production to our local audience. Her commitment to social progression benefiting women and girls is both extraordinary and powerful in her productions. She gives you humor, she gives you unforgettable dialogue, and she gives you something to think about. It will be both entertaining and impactful." Said Hannah Rosenthal, executive director Chicago Foundation for Women. In addition to the performance, there will be a reception after the show to give the audiences an opportunity to meet and greet Eve Ensler.

All proceeds will benefit Chicago Foundation for Women and its work to influence social justice for women and girls. More information and tickets for this event can be found at www.cfw.org or by calling 312-836-0126.

'Blue Collar' comedian makes Genesee Theatre debut

Nitelite Promotions will present Bill Engvall for a one-night-only appearance on Saturday, Feb. 4 at 8 p.m. Tickets, which are all priced at $35, are on sale, and can be purchased at the Genesee Theatre Box Office, all Ticketmaster outlets, charge-by-phone at 312-559-1212 or online at www.ticketmaster.com.

Bill Engvall, co-star of the "Blue Collar Comedy Tour," has achieved many top spots on the charts during his comedic career. His first album, "Here's Your Sign," sold more than one million copies and held the No. 1 position on the Billboard Comedy Chart for 15 weeks straight. His second release, "Dorkfish," hit No. 1 in 1998 selling more than 500,000 copies, and his 2002 release, "Cheap Drunk: An Autobiography," debuted at No. 1.

"Blue Collar Comedy Tour, The Movie," premiered on Comedy Central and was the most-watched movie in the channel's 12 year history and has sold more than 3 million copies in DVD/VHS. It led to the development of the sketch comedy show "Blue Collar TV," also featuring Jeff Foxworthy and Larry the Cable Guy.

Bill Engvall's performance provides insightful and hysterical material on a wide range of topics that include kids, family life and animals. Sharing the humor in everyday situations is helping Engvall in making a fast rise to one of today's top comedians.

Git-R-Done at the Genesee: 'Larry the Cable Guy' to perform

Outback Concerts will present Larry the Cable Guy for two shows on Saturday, April 1 at 5 p.m. and 8 p.m. Tickets, which are all priced at $42.75 go on sale Friday, Dec. 16 at 10 a.m., and can be purchased at the Genesee Theatre Box Office, all Ticketmaster outlets, charge-by-phone at 312-559-1212 or online at www.ticketmaster.com.

With his cry of "Git-R-Done!" and "Lord, I Apologize?" Larry the Cable Guy begins his daily radio commentaries in cities around the country. You might not think a cable installer could be hilariously funny – until you see Larry the Cable Guy, the church-going, strip bar-going know-it-all comedian in theaters and arenas across the U.S.

Born and raised on a pig farm in Pawnee City, Neb. his family then moved to West Palm Beach, Florida. Like many comics he began his career on a dare at a local comedy club in 1986. He was immediately hooked. In 1988, he quit his day job as the funniest bellhop at The Ramada and hit the road. It wasn't long before he was wowing comedy club crowds with his high energy one liner style of stand up and soon made appearances on "Evening at The Improv," "Comic Strip Live," Comedy Central, MTV and Showtime.

Larry burst onto the radio scene in 1992 on a highly rated Tampa morning show and was subsequently syndicated into Orlando. More stations followed and today his wacky, outrageous and topical commentaries are carried daily in 14 markets on rock radio. Larry is also a regular of Jeff Foxworthy's Country Countdown Show. He also makes regular guest appearances on nationally syndicated shows Man Cow in the Morning, The John Boy & Billy Show, and the Bob & Tom Show.

Star of "Blue Collar TV," the ensemble cast also included Jeff Foxworthy and Bill Engvall from "Blue Collar Comedy Tour, The Movie." The show came about due to the success of the film and the highly successful concert tour, which grossed more than 15 million dollars. The movie premiered on Comedy Central and was the highest rated movie in the channel's history. Larry will also be the voice of one of the animated characters in "Cars," an upcoming feature film from Disney/Pixar. For the fans of Blue Collar Comedy, Larry and the Blue Collar Comedy boys (Jeff Foxworthy, Bill Engvall and Ron White) will come out with the 3rd Blue Collar movie called "One For the Road" in the summer of 2006.

His CD "Lord, I Apologize," recorded live in Omaha, has been released on Universal Music and is now available in stores. The CD has been number one on the Billboard Comedy Charts for nine weeks in a row. He has also filmed a DVD special titled "Git-R-Done," which aired on Comedy Central May 23, 2004. The special gave Comedy Central their second biggest Sunday night.

Reggaeton to debut

Mt. Beulah Productions announce Baby Ranks and Wibal & Alex on Saturday, Jan. 21 at 8 p.m. Tickets, which are priced at $60, $42 and $32, and can be purchased at the Genesee Theatre Box Office, all Ticketmaster outlets, charge-by-phone at 312-559-1212 or online at www.ticketmaster.com.

Baby Ranks (Tu Bailar, Salida) and Wibal & Alex (Tu Pichandome, Hace Tiempo), top Reggaeton artists produced by Luny Tunes. Collectively known as Luny Tunes, the young duo Francisco Saldana and Victor Cabrera once worked at Harvard University as a chef and a dishwasher, respectively, but that was before they began remixing, redefining, and revolutionizing the burgeoning reggaeton movement. The pair has assembled a first-rate posse of stars for Mas Flow 2, the follow-up to 2003's first installment. Luny Tunes have been called reggaeton's answer to hip-hop producers the Neptunes, and Mas Flow 2 goes a long way towards justifying the comparison.

The Genesee Theatre is located at 203 N. Genesee St. in Waukegan.

opening this week

Brokeback Mountain: This is director Ang Lee's much-awaited big screen version of the gay love story by author Annie Proulx, in which cowboys Heath Ledger and Jake Gyllenhaal connect as life-long soul mates.

In Wyoming in 1963 the two young men meet when they land summer jobs herding sheep on isolated Brokeback Mountain. They're both lonely souls with different demeanors, alienated from their families, and inching toward a tentative friendship. While Ledger and Gyllenhaal pursue a companionship that is defies the conventions of that time, they also struggle to love and support their wives (strong performances by Michelle Williams and Anne Hathaway) and children. This mini-epic covers a period of about 20 years. Expect Oscar nods for Ledger as best actor and Lee possibly for best picture. (R)

The Family Stone: This comedy revolves around the annual holiday gathering of a family that's thrown into turmoil when the fair-haired son (Dermot Mulroney) introduces his fiancée, a high strung New York businesswoman (Sarah Jessica Parker), whom the family hates. Also starring Claire Danes, Luke Wilson, Craig T. Nelson, Rachel McAdams, and Diane Keaton. (PG-13)

King Kong: Director Peter Jackson ("The Lord of the Rings" trilogy) directs this dramatic adventure remake in which he brings his sweeping cinematic vision to the big screen. It's the story of a gigantic ape captured in the wild and brought to civilization where he meets his tragic fate. Stars Naomi Watts, Jack Black, Adrien Brody, Colin Hanks, Jamie Bell and Andy Serkis as Kong. (PG-13)

The Producers: Mel Brooks' 1968 Hollywood farce that went on to be a Tony award winning play, gets a shiny new face in a big screen version. It's all about losing and winning on Broadway, while tapping your toes and carrying a great tune. This laugh-out-loud funny movie is a real bargain, for less than $10 you can take a trip to the theater. Stars Nathan Lane, Matthew Broderick and Uma Thurman. (PG-13)

Rob Marshall, the director of "Chicago," transforms Arthur Golden's 1997 novel (it spent two years on the New York Times best-seller list) seamlessly to the screen. The story of how Chiyo (young Suzuka Ohgo), a fisherman's daughter sold by her family who could not support her, transcends her conditions to become Sayuri (Ziyi Zhang, "House of Flying Daggers"), the most sought after geisha in Japan, is told with breathtaking splendor. Her journey was not without cost, however.

Chiyo becomes a servant in the most popular geisha house in the district, answering to every whim of its owner O-Kami and to the beautiful Hatsumomo (Gong Li, "Raise the Red Lantern," "Farewell My Concubine"). Hatsumomo commands the highest regard and the highest price of any geisha for an evening in her company. But she has committed the greatest indiscretion of a geisha; she has fallen in love with a poor worker.

Chiyo feels there is no way out of a life of drudgery and she sees that her sister has become a street prostitute. As she weeps sadly, a very important man, accompanied by two lovely geisha, takes the time to buy her an ice cone and offers his handkerchief to her. The women seem so happy and admired by everyone, that Chiyo decides she would like to study to become a geisha.

Geisha essentially means living art. They are performing artists. Chiyo trains as a dancer, a singer and a musician. She learns the art of gracefully handling the fan and of pouring tea. Perhaps most important the geisha is an enchanting conversationalist and an attentive listener. The geisha's own passions are never revealed but remain as tightly bound as her layers of silk kimonos.

This transgression of falling in love makes Hatsumomo careless, and she is envious of the great beauty she sees about to emerge in the young Chiyo, who will undoubtedly become her rival very soon. She frames Chiyo and the young girl is sold to Mameha (Michelle Yeoh of "Crouching Tiger, Hidden Dragon"), a beautiful geisha who is the companion of the highly regarded Chairman (Ken Watanabe, "The Last Samurai").

With Mameha's guidance the shy Chiyo becomes the radiant geisha Sayuri, who commands the attention of every wealthy businessman eagerly willing to pay the price for the pleasure of Sayuri's company for her first private assignation, shall we say. Ziyi Zhang as Sayuri performs a magnificent dance sequence here in footwear that makes dancing off in your Manolo Blahniks seem like a piece of cake. Some of you may remember her gravity defying Echo Dance in "The House of Flying Daggers." But Sayuri harbors a secret similar to Hatsumomo's; she is in love with Mameha's lover, The Chairman. Sayuri still has the handkerchief he gave her to dry her eyes on the day he bought her an ice cone.

World War II leaves Japan in ruin. The Chairman and his business partner try to rebuild with US government support and funds, and he asks Sayuri if she and a few other geisha can help entertain some influential Americans who are enthralled with the idea of "geisha girls."

This beautifully photographed film gives audiences a rare glimpse into the little understood world of the geisha. There is an obvious admiration by the storytellers for the beauty, skill and art of the geisha. It also helps us appreciate the adept handling of business strategies employed by the women who train and manage the careers of these strong, intelligent women known as geisha.

The casting is glorious though controversial, with most of the principals being Chinese in this Japanese story. Ken Watanabe is the only Japanese actor in a major role.

Sayuri realizes that her life has not been as most might like and she cautions us at the end of the film with these words, "These are not the memories of an empress or a queen. These are memories of a different kind."

Take Us Home Today

Joe DiMaggio

This 9-month-old domestic shorthair was found as a stray. He's very laid back and loves to be carried around like a stuffed animal. He's described as mellow and easy going.

Utopia

This 7-year-old brown chihuahua is back at Save-A-Pet again because her newest owners couldn't take her with to their new home. She knows basic commands and is described as "the best dog in the world" by one SAP staffer.

Brianna

Although this 8-month old brown and white tabby is FIV-positive, the feline equivalent of human HIV, she can be around other cats.

Vanity

A rescue from Hurricane Katrina still in need of a home, Vanity is a 8-month-old mixed breed who is very sweet and good with other dogs or children.

AEAR ADOPTIONS

Clay

Clay is a sweet friendly guinea pig looking for his forever home.

Ringo

Ringo is a handsome, energetic Australian Cattle dog. He is a wonderful, sweet, lovable dog that would love a big fenced yard and a family that will lavish attention on him. aearl@anet.com

These pets are available for adoption at Save-A-Pet, at 31664 N. Fairfield Road, Grayslake. For information, call 847-740-7788 or go to www.save-a-pet-il.org.

Why puppies aren't like sweaters

I cringe when I hear someone say they are "surprising their family" with a new dog. Or maybe they impulsively bought one as a gift. Animals are not sweaters, televisions or CDs.

The decision to get a dog should be the whole family's decision, especially when they are considering one during the holiday season.

The story goes something like this. The unassuming soon-to-be-new pet owner walks by a pet store. They see a precious bundle of fluff, and able to pull out the check-book pay for the puppy and take her home. As they walk out of the store with the dog, he might say to himself, "did I actually just do that?"

For pet stores, and some less reputable breeders who care more about the cash than the pups, the December holidays are a real boom in sales for them. They couldn't care less who buys their puppies. (In all frankness no one should buy a dog from a pet store anyway. Many of those dogs come from puppy mills and doing so only helps these people stay in business. Besides, you could end up with a dog with physical or mental problems.)

PET WISE

Careful planning is vital to success with a new dog. Caring for a dog can be an 18-year commitment. The dog will need to go outside to go potty three to upwards of 15 times per day, depending on the dog's age. If she's a pup it's likely she will be chewing, jumping and biting. Early on, sleep for the new pet owners - and remember it's the holidays - will be limited, especially if the pup needs to go out in the middle of the night.

We're also living in the Midwest. Each potty break the owner must bundling up to take the pup out. Then it's quite possible in the first week or so the pup will sit outside shivering from the cold looking up at their owner clueless of what outside potty means. In turn the owner standing by the dog shivering herself, telling the pup (begging really) "go potty, go on go potty."

So, for those of you who want to add a new dog to your home this time of year do yourself and your loved ones a favor, either wait to add a pet until January or go into it with all family members fully invested, and plan on buying lots of long underwear as you stand outside with that pup pleading with her to "Go Potty!"

Missy

Missy is an adorable little white fluff ball who is around six years old. She is looking for a quiet home where she can curl up in someone's lap. Contact aearl@anet.com or call 847-816-0831.

BACOA's Monday lunch program

BACOA's Monday lunch program is held at the Barrington Park District, 235 Lions Dr., Barrington. Bingo begins at 10:30 a.m.; lunch is served at noon. Suggested donation is $3. However if underwriting is unavailable for special programs, there may be an increase in the suggested donation. Pre-registration is required. Call 847-381-5030 for more information.

Greencastle luncheon

All area seniors are invited to the Tuesday and Thursday lunch programs at Greencastle of Barrington from 11:30 to 1 p.m. and participate in the "Senior Social" following lunch. Lunch is served at noon for a suggested donation of $3, with no additional charge for the Senior Social programs. Advance registration is required. Call 847-381-5030 for more information. Greencastle is located at 445 E. Main, Barrington.

Sign, say and play

Ever wonder what your baby is trying to tell you? Baby Signs is a new program at the Northbrook Park District that focuses on better communication between parent and child. Through games, songs and activities, babies, ages 6 to 30 months, learn simple gestures for communicating with their parents and caregivers before they can talk.

This reduces frustration and strengthens important language, cognitive and social-emotional skills. Visit babysigns.com for more details.

Classes will be held at the Leisure Center, 3323 Walters Ave., starting Jan. 11. Fees are $78 for residents and $83 for nonresidents for this six-week class. Call 847-291-2980 to register.

School's out fun

Go back in time on your day off from school. School's Out Fun will take a trip to Medieval Times in Schaumburg on Jan. 16, Martin Luther King Day. See knights jousting and competing during this special presentation. The group will meet at the Leisure Center, 3323 Walters Ave. in Northbrook at 9 a.m. and return by 3 p.m. A pizza lunch will be served.

Registration deadline is Jan. 2. No walk-in registration will be allowed. Call 847-291-2980 for more information.

National Arbor Day Foundation creates opportunity for people to help replant trees

The National Arbor Day Foundation has announced a special new campaign to assist in tree recovery efforts for the areas that were devastated by Hurricane Katrina. Through the Katrina Tree Recovery Campaign, the Arbor Day Foundation, in cooperation with the National Audubon Society, is offering people across America the opportunity to support replanting trees in coastal Mississippi and Louisiana, and begin the reforestation of neighborhoods and cities across the region. For every $10 donated to the Katrina Tree Recovery Campaign, the Foundation will contribute 10 trees to be planted by Katrina victims.

"This is an important way to help those who have suffered the loss of vital trees," said Arbor Day Foundation President John Rosenow. "Through their contribution, supporters throughout America will make it possible for people in Mississippi and Louisiana to plant native-species trees to counter some of the destruction caused by Katrina. Trees add beauty and conservation benefits to back yards and natural areas. This is an important way to help restore the land and rebuild communities."

The tree species to be planted include Baldcypress, Red Maple, Eastern Redcedar, and Red Oak. Rosenow adds that not only will supporters have the satisfaction of donating these trees to people in need, but the Arbor Day Foundation will also provide to each donor of $10 or more a free membership, including a subscription to the Foundation's bimonthly publication, Arbor Day, and The Tree Book with information about tree planting and care.

Rosenow says the Arbor Day Foundation is pleased to work with Audubon Mississippi in distributing these trees to Gulf Coast residents. "Audubon's commitment to getting the trees to the people and areas of need is vital," he said, "and their leadership in organizing volunteer tree planters is helping make this possible."

To help hurricane victims replant these devastated areas, send your contribution to the Katrina Tree Recovery Campaign, National Arbor Day Foundation, 100 Arbor Avenue, Nebraska City, NE 68410, or contribute online at arborday.org/katrina.

A Still Life in Color presented by TUTA

TUTA presents a world premiere A Still Life in Color by Philip Dawkins. Directed by Zeljko and starring Mike Driscoll, Jeremy Glickstein, P.J. Schoeny, Jacqueline Store and Alice Wedoff this exotic fairy tale follows three lovers, a boy, a girl and the other girl who collide, stir, and vanish in a passionate drive to break out of their extreme solitude living in a world where it has been raining for nine years. As the waters flood and rush closer to the highest rooms of a soaring castle, the lovers find themselves in a predicament where wishes do come true, but the consequences affect more than they bargained for and reveal that love endures through the changing tides of time and self.

A Still Life in Color will run through Dec. 18 with Thursday through Saturday shows at 8 p.m. and Sunday at 3 p.m. Tickets prices are from $12 to $20 at Chicago Dramatists Theatre, 1105 W. Chicago Ave. in Chicago. For more information call 847-217-0691.

Musical Christmas shows open at Apple Holler

The tradition continues at Apple Holler as it welcomes the Holiday Season with a musical show at the Red Barn Theatre. Apple Holler's Merry Christmas 1946 runs through Dec. 29. The children's musical Elves on the Shelves also runs weekends through Sunday, Dec. 18.

Director Michael Becker outdoes himself again with two newly written songs fust for this production of Merry Christmas 1946. Becker says "we decided to do a show set in the 1940s since audiences seem to enjoy the nostalgia of stepping back in time." The show features a tribute to "It's a Wonderful Life," which premiered Christmas Eve 1946.

The Dorsey Brothers and Andrew Sisters ruled the jukebox. The haunting words and melody of "I'll be home for Christmas" still brought tears to the eyes of folks with too-fresh war memories. Merry Christmas 1946, a warm and nostalgic revue, is presented as a diner theatre, with wine and cheese, dinner and the show running throughout the meal. The price of $39.95, includes Wisconsin wine and cheese, full-course meal, dessert, beverage, show, tax and tip. All performances are by reservation only. Elves on the Shelves is a charming musical play filled with Christmas stories, songs and Santa's elves, and a perfect way to celebrate the Christmas season. Children will be delighted to see how the elves help them find the true spirit of Christmas within them. Sure to be a hit with young and old, Elves on the Shelves entertains with holiday songs, laughter and the special charm of an elfin sense of humor. The Enchanted Barn Kids Stage is decorated with twinkling lights, Christmas trees and festive ornaments for the fun. Family package includes: Holiday musical show, Elves on the Shelves, warm apple cider and chocolate chip cookie, a surprise gift for each child, Apple Holler Express wagon ride through the Enchanted Forest, farmyard animal friends to visit. Cost is $6 per person, children and adults or $5 for groups of 20 or more.

Apple Holler is located between Racine and Kenosha, on West Frontage Road off I-94, just north of the Highway KR exit. For further information, call 800-238-3629.

Faster, smaller, cheaper, better

These four words can sum up where technology has been heading the past decade or so, and where it is going to continue to go in the future.

Try to think back about five years and compare that to how you live today. Did you and all almost everyone you know have mobile phones? Had you ever heard of "instant messaging"? Did you have any idea you would be able to take a color photo with your cell phone and send it across the world instantly?

If that much has changed in just five years, think how much will be different five years into the future.

Dr. Kayed Akkawi, dean of the School of Computer Studies at Robert Morris College describes how technology has changed over the years. "Ten years ago, people weren't interested in technology because it was very expensive, very high maintenance. Companies and organizations were reluctant to embrace new technology. Today, technology has made everything smaller, cheaper, faster and it can do more - it is part of our everyday lives."

He refers to a next generation of technology called "nanotechnology," which we will see in the next 10 to 20 years. It involves the increasingly interwoven worlds of telecommunications, computer technology and microelectronics. The result will be small, fast, high-tech gadgets that do more and cost less than what we have now.

Robert Morris College is keeping up the pace as a leader in technology education by staying in tune with industry needs. On RMC's advisory board are such cutting-edge companies as Hewlett-Packard, SBC and AT & T. Akkawi states, "We talk to them twice a year and they tell us what skills they are looking for in an individual. We base our curriculum on what we hear from the industry and the job outlook published by the government."

Akkawi explains how Robert Morris College uses this vital information from industry leaders. "We believe in a hands-on approach. Our program is applied education. All our computer classes are taught in a lab environment, so it's a simulation of the real world problems. Members of its faculty are practitioners in the field; they don't just come here from school. What the industry is looking for is someone who has the skills to enter the job running, not needing three or six months training."

While the computer classes are the core of the curriculum, Akkawi stresses that RMC's programs provide a well-rounded education, particularly in the area of communication. "Students need the ability to communicate," he says. "That is the single most important thing I tell my students about what employers are looking for."

Every student, in the final semester, must not only create a project, he or she must also present it ("sell it," according to Akkawi) to a group of faculty members and then be able to defend it.

There is a myth going around now, according to Akkawi, that, "students nowadays, especially in high school, see the layoff of technology workers right and left, and counselors are telling them that computers is not the field to be in right now. That is a total myth."

According to the Bureau of Labor Statistics, careers in information technology are expected to grow by as much as 81 percent by 2010, compared with about 15 percent of all industries. Networking and database management, in particular, are careers that will be in the most demand. RMC's bachelor's degree in applied science allows students to concentrate in either of these two areas, as well as telecommunications or programming.

Robert Morris College recently announced the opening of The School of Graduate Studies. Classes begin in February for the Master of Information Systems program and the Master of Business Administration. The MIS curriculum builds upon the undergraduate foundation in computer studies and business that includes knowledge of web development, database management in a networked environment, managerial accounting and statistics. The curriculum will integrate the principles of information systems with the objectives of business, emphasizing strategic applications in database management, information assurance and network communication. Through real-world experiences, students may choose to customize a concentration in information assurance or business to gain depth in a topic or choose courses in technology and/or business to gain breadth.

Few industries change as rapidly as information technology. The most successful IT professionals don't just keep pace, they drive innovation. The Robert Morris College Master of Information Systems program teaches students to apply their knowledge of technology and skills in problem solving to meet business challenges and anticipate future needs.

Exhibition winners announced

The Art center Highland Park (Formerly the Suburban Fine Arts Center), is holding its annual "12" by "12" exhibition, which began Dec. 9, at the center. The show, juried by Chicago gallery owner Thomas Masters will run through Jan. 2.

Masters chose several pieces for prizes. First place was awarded to Skokie resident Gabrielle Boros' acrylic Self Portrait; second place goes to Chicago artist Dan Addington for his oil and wax on wood Small Sky: Harmony of Leaves; and third place winner was Ron Testa of Wilmette for his digital print. Awards of merit were given to Wendy Chancy of Lake Forest; Jane Ellefson, Lindenhurst and Anna Karczewicz of Chicago.

Highland Park residents chosen for the exhibit where no work is larger than 12 inches by 12 inches include Diane Dorigan, Gail Fried, Jonathan Friedman, and Judith Hechtman. Also in the show are Ed Watson of Buffalo Grove; Ann Hughes and Beverly Zwikoski of Charleston; Dirk Fletcher and Robert Tolchin of Deerfield. Evanston residents include Shelley Gilchrist, Beatrice Fisher, Cindy Jevon, Sharon Swidler and Verna Todd. Reggie Siske and James DeWitt of Glenview; Ruth Bremmer, and Laura Simpson of Glenview; Susan Schneider of Gurnee and Lucie Phillips of Kenilworth. Also Lake Forest residents Marlic Jones, Ann Roberts, and Lorraine Stillman; Libertyville resident Kathy Chambers, and Lindenhurst residents Mary Burke and Darlene Grossman are featured in the exhibit.

Artists Elaine Friedman, Larry Nelson and Lorre Slaw are from Northbrook; Judy Langston of Park Ridge; Don Wheeler and Milvi Wheeler of Riverwoods, Jackie Carmichael of Wadsworth and Chati Borushek of Wilmette.

The Art Center Highland Park is a 46 year old non-for-profit art center located at 1957 Sheridan Road in downtown Highland Park. Gallery hours for this show are Monday through Saturday, 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Your thoughts on this week's hot topic

Q: "Do you think the in-flight air marshals did the right thing by shooting a passenger after he claimed there was a bomb in his bag?"

ROBYN ZULLO
Wildwood

"Yes, I do. I think (the air marshal) did the right thing because if he really did have a bomb, it would have saved a lot of people. It's the whole security thing."

JOHN PIHA
Pleasant Prairie, Wis.

"When someone threatens there's a bomb in this day of terrorism, (air marshals) are trained to react to them. Maybe some discretion could've been used."

LEE LEPPERT
Wauconda

"The thing that comes to mind, is why did they have to kill him? They could have injured him to disarm him."

DOUG NIEMAN
Round Lake Beach

"Sure. The guy said he had a bomb. If he hadn't been stopped by the marshalls who knows what could have happened and they (the marshalls) would have been criticized for that too."

DWAYNE BELL
Grayslake

"Yes, they did. They did not know at that moment if it was a real threat. So for the concern and safety of the passengers, yes, I think they responded appropriately."

Jack Benny Center to host contest for student musicians

By Matt Pera
Staff Reporter

The Waukegan Park District's Cultural Arts Division, along with the Waukegan Symphony Orchestra, will provide high school students from throughout the county the opportunity to express their musical talents next month.

The two groups began accepting applications last week for the 2006 Nancy Fuqua Memorial Artists Competition, which invites students who are living in Lake County, or are from another area but are studying music in the county, to participate.

Waukegan Park District Superintendent of Cultural Arts Claudia Petrusky said the number of participants had varied from just five students some years to more than 25 others. But, regardless of the quantity, she said the quality of the competition was almost always impressive.

"It is based on (the students') interpretation of the music," she said. "It's also based on their preparation in dealing with tempo and rhythm and having consistency where consistency is called for and to...know when you need to do something a little different."

Waukegan Symphony Orchestra Director Stephen Blackwelder and Waukegan Concert Chorus Director Sylvanus Tyler III are judges for the competition, which began in 1984. Petrusky said a different guest judge is added each year as well.

Students who participate in the competition, which is scheduled for Jan. 15, are required to perform from memory one movement of a standard concerto or single-movement work. All orchestral instruments are permitted in the contest, along with piano and guitar.

'This is an exercise that is different from a recital or from being in even a small ensemble group.'

Participants are judged in four categories—musicianship, artistry, skill and performance.

The winner of the contest will then perform the piece they selected for the competition with the symphony orchestra and concert chorus May 13 at their joint concert, "Sounds of the Spirits," at Waukegan High School.

Aside from the chance to perform with a full orchestra and chorus, the winner will also receive $400. Second and third

Buy-back program nets 247 guns

By Matt Pera
Staff Reporter

According to Lake County Sheriff Gary Del Re, the numbers speak for themselves. Forty six percent of the households with children in the county also have at least one gun. The most recent statistics for the county also show that gunshot wounds are the second-leading cause of death or injury among children and young adults between the ages of 10 and 24, behind only automobile accidents.

That is why the number 247 is also significant to Del Re, as it represents the amount of guns that were accumulated during the Dec. 10 gun buy-back program, a joint effort between the Lake County Sheriff's Office, Crime Stoppers, the Chiefs of Police Association and the Lake County Metropolitan Enforcement Group.

On Dec. 12, Del Re and other county officials stood in front of several tables displaying every rifle and handgun that was bought back over the weekend to discuss what they deemed a productive program.

"This has been a very successful effort, one that takes place county-wide," Del Re said. "It really indicates our ability to do things collectively and really get the job done."

The municipal police stations that participated in the program were Waukegan (38 guns bought back), Round Lake Beach (32), Buffalo Grove (41), Lake Forest (10), Gurnee (34), Highland Park (10), Mundelein (48), Grayslake (20) and Vernon Hills (14).

The guns were transported from the sheriff's office in Waukegan Dec. 12 and taken to a facility where they were melted down.

Del Re said members of the sheriff's office, the state police and officers from each local municipality managed the buy-back sta-

SWALCO launches residential construction recycling initiative

As part of the agency's 50 percent county-wide recycling goal, the Solid Waste Agency of Lake County (SWALCO) has initiated a new partnership that creates recycling opportunities at new residential construction sites.

The Home Builders Association of Greater Chicago (HBAGC) will encourage its members to recycle as much as possible at their construction sites, and in return SWALCO will provide training and technical assistance to the builders and evaluate program effectiveness.

"Up to 30 percent of new residential construction site waste is recyclable," said SWALCO coordinator Peter Adrian.

Examples of recyclable materials found at residential construction sites include cardboard, wood and metals.

The partnership with HBAGC officially begins on Jan. 1, and applies to both single-family as well as multi-family home building construction sites. "There is no other partnership like this in the country," Adrian said.

Pulte Homes and Lakewood Homes were recently recognized by SWALCO for their construction site recycling efforts in Round Lake.

Those developments include 1,200 new single- and multi-family homes, and the agency estimates that 36,000 cubic yards of recyclable materials will have been diverted from landfills by the time they are complete.

The agency determined that the most effective way to successfully divert recyclable construction materials from the county's waste stream was to provide information and training to homebuilders, and then publicly recognize their efforts as the new developments are constructed. Homebuilders will have to track and report their recycling efforts to SWALCO.

"We quickly realized that it would be better for everyone if we created a voluntary program, rather than trying to get municipalities to adopt new ordinances," Adrian said.

The current Lake County Solid Waste Hauling and Recycling Ordinance only applies to unincorporated areas. The ordinance is available online at www.co.lake.il.us/elibrary/ordinances/default.asp.

SWALCO tells ways to reduce, reuse, recycle during holidays

Americans throw away 25 percent more trash during the Thanksgiving to New Year's holiday period compared to any other time of the year. The Solid Waste Agency of Lake County (SWALCO) is encouraging everyone to reduce and recycle more during the holidays by reducing packaging, recycling wrapping paper and holiday trees, using rechargeable batteries, and properly disposing of special wastes.

1. Purchase Gifts Made Out of Recycled Content Materials. SWALCO can help you "close the loop" of recycling by providing an online Recycled Content Product Guide (look for the link on their website www.swalco.org).

2. BYOB - Bring Your Own Bag. When you do your shopping, bring along your own bags so you do not collect any more at the stores.

3. Don't Throw Unwanted Electronics in the Trash. Take them to SWALCO's spring "E-waste" collection event. Check the web site (www.swalco.org) or call the SWALCO office at 847-336-9340 for more information in February.

4. Use Rechargeable Batteries and then dispose of them properly at a SWALCO Household Chemical Waste Collection when they run out of juice.

5. Reuse or Recycle Packaging Materials. UPS Store/Mailboxes Etc. will accept clean packing peanuts at any of their locations. More Styrofoam recycling options can be found online (www.epspackaging.org/info).

6. Reduce Gift Wrapping Waste. Wrapping paper can be recycled, so place it at the curb with your other household recyclables. Or make the wrapping part of the gifts you give (e.g. scarves, pillow cases, and cloth napkins).

7. Reduce Waste at Holiday Parties. Try using real plates and cloth napkins at your events, and don't forget to set out the recycling bin for your guests.

8. Donate to Charity. You can find a new home for unwanted goods by calling the United Way of Lake County at 847-775-1000.

9. Recycle Your Christmas Tree. Contact your local city or village hall to determine when or if Christmas trees will be collected in your area. In the event pick-up service is not available, the Lake County Forest Preserve District has designated drop-off locations at the Greenbelt, Half Day, Lakewood, Old School, and Van Patten Woods preserves (Dec. 26 to Feb. 1) Remove decorations.

10. Make a Resolution to Reduce Your Waste-Line in the New Year. The waste generation rate in Lake County is 7.5 pounds of trash per person per day. Follow these tips throughout 2006.

COMPETITION

place contestants will also receive cash prizes, Petrusky said.

Winners have come from all over the county. Last year, Hawthorn Woods resident Mindy Park, who was a freshman at Lake Zurich at the time, won for her cello performance.

Petrusky said the students' composure during the competition had been impressive each year.

"This is an exercise that is different from a recital or from being in even a small ensemble group," she said. "It's completely different because you are pretty much bearing your soul to complete strangers and you can see the maturity in some of these young people, it's pretty amazing."

The deadline for registration is Dec. 31 and must include a $20 non-refundable application with the completed form.

Checks should be made payable to the Waukegan Park District and returned with the form to the Jack Benny Center for the Arts, 39 Jack Benny Drive, Waukegan, IL 60087.

tions, reflecting the ability of the county's law enforcement to work together.

Lake County Chiefs of Police Association President Mark Fleischhauer explained that the buy-back program was an opportunity to get unwanted guns out of their homes.

"Everyone is familiar with at least one or two stories of children who were accidentally shot, accidentally killed or hurt," he said. "All we're trying to do is raise awareness and increase the safety of the children in our communities."

Lake County Crime Stoppers Director Andy Anderson said the program had been a success in years past as well, with 408 guns bought back during its inaugural year in 2001, 478 in 2002 and 205 in 2003. The effort was put on hold in 2004 before resuming this year.

"If this has saved a life or this saved a major injury to a person, we can't have a better success than that," he said. "And if we all continue working together, we will continue making all of our communities here in Lake County a safer place to live, work and/or visit."

Board members question hiring methods

By Matt Pera

Staff Reporter

Two Waukegan Community Unit School District 60 Board of Education members spoke out against a controversial vote made at its Dec. 13 meeting.

The board voted 5-2 to name Donaldo Batiste the district's new superintendent, with current superintendent Richard Olson set to retire from the post June 30.

Batiste, who is currently the deputy superintendent of the district, has spent the last two years in Waukegan in charge of the Division of Academic Affairs, Curriculum and Instruction.

But board member June Maguire and Vice President William Anderson both voted against the move, saying the board had not taken the appropriate steps toward offering Batiste a contract.

Maguire said the agenda she received the week prior to the meeting did not have Batiste's appointment listed as an item, adding that she was not even aware of the move until two hours before the meeting began.

Board members never met as a whole with Dr. Batiste with regard to the position and never met as a whole with regards to the parameters (of the contract)," she said.

Anderson added that, while he felt Batiste was qualified for the job, he could not vote in favor of the hire, which in his estimation included no discourse with members of the community.

"What I am disturbed about is the board's action in doing this without any community involvement whatsoever," he said. "I've suggested several methods whereby there could be community involvement and they've been shut down."

Board President Fernando Shipley said the board chose to appoint Batiste without any public discourse because Batiste would have been hired as superintendent either way.

"Regardless of what's been said we're moving forward," he said. "I owe an apology to Mr. Anderson and Ms. Maguire because they seem to think the process should have been something that involved the community and I just tend to believe that, when you're involved with the best person you can find, I'm not going to play the game where (I say), 'I'm going to look at other people but I'm going to pick (Batiste).'"

As new building rises, CLC expands classes

With construction running ahead of schedule, the new classroom building at the College of Lake County's Southlake Educational Center is taking shape in Vernon Hills.

And with more courses being offered this spring at the college's expanding Southlake facility, CLC is moving closer to its goal of better serving residents of southern Lake County.

Construction of the $13.89 million building began in March, and the facility is expected to be ready for classes in January 2007.

In anticipation of the spring 2007 opening of the new building, the college is already adding several new classes and scheduling options. In the spring 2006 semester, two classes in the college's new Paralegal Studies Program will be offered at Southlake for the first time. "Introduction to Paralegal Studies" will be offered on Tuesday evenings and "Contract Law" on Wednesday evenings.

Transfer students who work full time or are early risers can arrive at Southlake at 7 a.m. for "Basic Algebra." Students able to attend classes later in the morning have the option of "Intermediate Algebra" or "College Algebra," both offered at 9 a.m. Courses offered at Southlake are identified with a "200" section number in the course listings in the CLC Class Schedule.

For transfer students who need late afternoon or early evening classes, CLC offers a planned progression of courses that allow students to complete many of the requirements for an Associate in Arts transfer degree at Southlake. Late afternoon classes generally begin around 4 p.m., while early evening classes begin at 7 p.m.

Construction of the Southlake classroom building will allow the college to expand programs and services offered in south Lake County. Currently, the college offers transfer and career program courses, English as a second Language (ESL) courses, non-credit programs for seniors and training for business and industry at the Southlake Educational Center.

With the opening of the new classroom building, the college will be able to offer a complete associate's degree and a comprehensive student services program, allowing CLC to seek campus status for Southlake.

"This beautiful, light-filled building is being completed so that students and members of the public will enjoy more of CLC in south Lake County — more of the courses and more of the services," said Dee Abbate, director of the Southlake Educational Center. "They will appreciate the many fine details of the design such as the glass ceiling of the student lounge. At Southlake, CLC will offer everything needed to complete a transfer degree, as well as a great selection of short-term current interest courses with childcare available, all in a lovely new setting."

The new building will include six general classrooms, 11 computer laboratories, a science laboratory, a child care center, a bookstore and a learning resource center. Student services, including counseling, student activities, tutoring and testing, will be expanded. A three story glass-enclosed student lounge will be the focal point of the west-facing building.

The Business and Industry Training Center offices and conference center facilities, located on the third floor, will overlook a landscaped series of ponds. The new CLC classroom building connects with Southlake's existing 16,269-square-foot building, which opened in April 1998. The new building will connect with Southlake's existing 16,269-square-foot building, which contains 11 classrooms, including four computer laboratories and one distance-learning classroom. The general contractor is Doherty Construction of Woodstock, and the architect of record is Legat, Inc. of Waukegan.

Southlake Educational Center is located at 1120 S. Milwaukee Ave., 2.5 miles south of Route 60 and two-tenths of a mile north of the intersection of Routes 45 and 21 in Vernon Hills. For more information, call 847-543-6501.

Spring semester classes begin Jan. 17. To apply for admission, call 847-543-2061 or log on to www.clcillinois.edu/applic.htm. To register for classes by phone (after completing CLC's admission process), call 847-223-1111. To register online, log on to www.clcillinois.edu/selfserv.htm.

Innovator named president of YWCA

The YWCA Lake County announced the election of Cheryl M. Gilliam of Grayslake as president its board of directors.

Gilliam is currently a program leader at Kraft Foods in Glenview where she puts her 22 years of professional experience in the medical and food industries to work.

Gilliam currently holds six U.S. patents, and was named the 2002 Enhancers Innovator of the year at Kraft. One of her packaging innovations includes the popular new Kraft Big Mouth Mayo container.

"The YWCA is extremely meaningful to me personally because my mother, Modestine, moved from South Carolina to the Detroit area during the Jim Crow years and stayed at a YWCA residential facility," Gilliam said. "Today, I live in a three-generation household with my mother and daughter and I am proud to lead the YWCA in supporting all women and girls, regardless of age, economic status and ethnicity."

"The YWCA is one of her strongest passions," said Elizabeth Forbrich, executive director of the county YWCA. "In her capacity as co-chair of the YWCA's Women of Achievement Awards (a position she held for three years), she was instrumental in gaining permission from Dr. Height to rename the prestigious YWCA's Racial Justice award to the Dr. Dorothy I. Height Racial Justice Award."

Gilliam is a strong champion of two key programs at the YWCA: TechGYRLS in Action, which teaches young girls about technology during afterschool clubs and full day camps, and Teen Moms, with comprehensive wrap-around services for at-risk teen girls.

Cheryl M. Gilliam

In February, Gilliam was presented with the 2005 Most Influential African American Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. Award for Lake County, by Soaring Eagle Publications for her contributions to the community and professional excellence.

Trial date set for police officer

By Rob Phillips

rphillips@nwnewsgroup.com

The first trial date was set for one of three former police officers accused of beating a man outside a Fox Lake bar in February.

A trial for former Richmond and Spring Grove police officer Brian Quilici is scheduled to begin March 6. Quilici is next expected to appear in court Jan. 31.

Quilici, along with Jessica Thelen and former police officers Ronald Pilati and Jerome Volstad, is charged with aggravated battery and mob action in connection with the alleged beating of Ryan Hallett.

Quilici, Pilati and Volstad also face other charges related to the Feb. 20 incident outside of KC's Cabin near Fox Lake.

Hallett left the alleged attack with a shattered right eye socket and other injuries. The four people charged in the beating say that Hallett was the aggressor.

Expect garbage, recycling service delays

Even though Christmas day and New Year's day fall on Sundays, employees of the waste hauling companies (Waste Management, Onyx, Groot, Mundein Disposal, and others) will not be working on the following Mondays.

Garbage and recycling collection services will take place a day later than the normal schedule, for most municipalities, during the weeks following Christmas and New Year's Day.

Most of the waste haulers will pick up Christmas trees two to four weeks after the holiday. If you have questions, contact your hauler. In the event pick-up service is not available, the Lake County Forest Preserve District has designated drop-off locations at the Greenbelt, Half Day, Lakewood, Old School, and Van Patten Woods preserves from Dec. 26 to Feb. 1.

Customer service phone numbers are—Onyx customer service (Vernon Hills, Waukegan and other northern areas): 847-623-3870; Waste Management Customer Service: 800-796-9696; Mundein Disposal: 847-566-5159 and Groot: 866-734-1100.

Inside voices respect shush

This is the kind of sign you might expect at preschool: "Children of all ages have to behave and use their indoor voices." It's hard to disagree with those rules. But the sign hangs in the window of a café in a North Side Chicago neighborhood. Owner Dan McCauley has upset some parents, according to an Associated Press story. But he says hundreds of callers and letter-writers say, "It's about time."

It's about manners. In public. By children.

And adults, too. Yeah, you and your cell phone. Or you and your foul language. Or you and your tailgating.

McCauley and other business owners are looking out for their customers. They don't want the peace of their quiet dinner broken by a child's outdoor voice.

One generation accuses the previous of a host of ills — disrespect, moral degradation, laziness, obesity, crime, and on, and on.

Generations have selective memories. The previous generation almost always is better than the current one. They forget that they were similarly accused. And the accusations go back through the ages.

But that does not excuse poor and rude behavior of children in public places. Parents have their work cut out for them, and this is not an area to cut corners on.

You might not be able to conclusively determine that children are worse today than they ever have been. But it is obvious that America has changed.

Families eat out more often than before. Children have grown up with fast-food restaurants with play areas attached. When you go to McDonald's, you do not expect a quiet meal. That might be a training ground for good manners in public. It's not anything goes.

As the restaurant check increases, diners' expectations increase. They are paying for good meals in a pleasant atmosphere. The bottom line? They aren't paying to listen to your kid whine.

Restaurants are enforcing stricter rules that limit the behavior of patrons, be they adults, parents or children. Some won't allow children in. It's not snobbery or discrimination. They need to look out for their clientele.

Children learn manners from their parents. Some children take longer to learn than others, and it is up to the parents to make sure the lessons are not taught at a restaurant. Take it outside.

While they're at it, you can take your phone outside, too.

CIA leak case—freedom of press or managing the news

COMMENTARY

By now, everyone knows all about the Central Intelligence Agency (CIA) "leak case." It is a very complicated case, and it is becoming a "multi-monster" for both the Bush administration, in particular, and the journalistic profession, in general.

At different times, I have written here about the importance of a free press and why reporters should be protected against revealing their sources on information they provide the public. Many abuses and scandals have been exposed because reporters have used sources within government to inform the public about such wrongdoing.

I have also supported "shield laws," which protect reporters from having to tell who their sources were that led to the exposé, or reporting. Illinois has such a law. That protection is needed so that government is not allowed to use its enormous powers to punish or intimidate those who "leak" information to expose abuses in government.

The CIA leak case has brought the subject of leaks to the media, as well as revealing the sources of those leaks, to a heightened awareness. It has raised the issue of whether leaks precipitated by the government were done in the public's best interests, or to mold a policy agenda by some in the highest places of government.

At the heart of the matter, the leak case has led many more Americans to now believe that they have been betrayed by those policymakers who may have framed the reasons that led to the invasion of Iraq. The special prosecutors in the leak case have warned not to read any of that into the case, but it is a fact that the American public has lost patience, both in the many mistakes that have been made, and the mishandling of any strategy in the "post-war."

The reason that I have always supported the press in protecting its sources is because many abuses of government excesses and corruption have come from "whistle-blowers" who certainly would be trampled upon if their names would be revealed. The CIA leak case is so different because the "apparent leakers" come from the highest levels of government.

What I am saying is that the issue of who leaks to the press and the one of reporters accepting that information to divulge the information to the public should be a "two-way street." In other words, it carries a huge responsibility to the public from both sides. Ordinarily, the leaker knows that the only way that a wrong can be made right is by exposing it to the public, and the reporter knows that the only way to get out the full and truthful story is by not revealing the source of the information. In that case, the public good is served.

Let's face it, at every level of government, the "officials" often have their "pets" in the media. They feed information to those who may give the best slant on the news. When government is prone to "spin" the news to satisfy its own political agenda, such a policy can be dangerous. What would be wrong with sharing all of that news to the general media, and let the public decide, after all of the media has reported on it, their own "spin?"

I said early on here that reporters have been very nervous about the leak case because it may infringe on their First Amendment rights of a free press. What many of them are worried about is that by cozying up to the "movers and shakers" in government, they are given "leaked information," or what is often called a "scoop," that isn't fed to others in the media. They don't want to lose that "source."

The problem with that, government-media relationship can often allow the government to "manage the news." Believe me, to allow the highest levels of government to manage the news can be just as damaging to the public as corruption in government.

When it comes to leaking information, I must say that government officials in high places, as well as some in the media, instead of being upset with the way Special Prosecutor Patrick Fitzgerald is handling the investigation, they might pattern the way he has handled leaks from his investigation. He hasn't tolerated any leaks-period. That's in stark contrast to other past prosecutors, and surely government "spin-doctors," no matter the political party, can take a lesson from him.

The CIA leak case, and all of its complicated ramifications, may be the most important federal investigation in many, many decades.

In the end, if it helps all of us Americans to achieve an honest and open government, and a press that is free and independent, we will all have been served well. Right now, I have a feeling that Patrick Fitzgerald will go down in history as one who led an investigation that had as its primary focus that government is still of the people, by the people, and for the people—not of government, by government, and for government.

PARTY LINES

THIS COLUMN OF POLITICAL OPINION IS PREPARED FROM STAFF REPORTS

Federal money hopes to make splash at lakefront

The city of Waukegan took another step toward redeveloping its lakefront on Dec. 12, when Congressman Mark Kirk (R-Highland Park) announced at the Waukegan Yacht Club that he had secured a $2.6 million federal earmark to help fund the economic revitalization of Waukegan Harbor.

Kirk was joined by Waukegan Mayor Richard Hyde and U.S. Army Corps of Engineers Colonel Gary Johnston at the announcement.

"By putting money on the table we can finally begin the process of formal planning (for the harbor)," Kirk said.

Johnston said the Army Corps of Engineers would use the $2.6 million to do preliminary dredging in portions of the harbor. Those efforts will lead into an environmental cleanup that is being planned by the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) to remove Polychlorinated Biphenyls (PCBs) from the harbor.

Hyde said the project would function as a maintenance program for the harbor that would be another step toward making the lakefront a more economically viable area of the city.

"Anything done on Genesee Street and the lakefront will have a ripple effect on the whole (downtown revitalization) project," he said.

Carlson swipes back

District 7 Lake County Board Member Steve Carlson (R-Gurnee) responded to a comment from last week's "Party Lines" column about former Lake County Board Chairman Bob Depke who said Carlson does not know what he is doing because he votes one way on an issue and then apologizes for it later.

"If Bob Depke has never apologized for any action he has taken in Lake County, he should have," Carlson said. "Just look around you."

Maybe it's why he didn't run against Obama

According to one Lake County board member who attended the Mike Ditka fundraiser/endorsement of David McSweeney for the Republican nomination for the Eighth Congressional District, Ditka said, "I could never run for congress. I would have to kick Ted Kennedy's ass."

Move in first

During executive session at Monday night's Mundelein Village Board meeting, the trustees voted 5-1 to allow negotiations for community development director John Lobalto to serve as the village administrator.

Trustee Terri Voss voted against the item. "I have said from the beginning of this search that I would not be willing to consider a candidate a viable candidate unless the person lives in Mundelein. John Lobalto refuses to move to Mundelein," she said.

Changed his mind

Libertyville's village board voted 4-2 to allow a special use permit for XSport Fitness to move into Greentree Plaza. The permit goes against the village's comprehensive plan.

Trustee Robert Peron voted against the permit this week and apologized for his vote on Sept. 27 to allow the permit. He said voting against the comprehensive plan "disrespects" three years of work. "I made a major mistake," he said. Peron help form the comprehensive plan, which he says is the "backbone" of future plans for the village.

Boob tube

Fox Lake Trustee Carol Ulsay questioned the police department's purchase of a large-screen TV it ended up, maybe because of the spirit of the season, in jest. Police officials said the TV is needed for training videos so it could host more classes.

Trustees were in a good mood this only meeting of December, granting a developer an extension for a hotel and water park plan and poking fun at each other.

Salvi staying put

Eighth Congressional District candidate Kathy Salvi issued the following statement in response to the request by Jim Oberweis that she consider running for Lt Governor.

"I am very flattered that Jim Oberweis thought I should consider running for Lt Governor. He is a principled conservative who wants to make Illinois a better place. But my

Kirk: Planning for harbor can start

Carlson: Responds to Depke charge

Voss: Wants community director to live in village

Ulsay: Questions village purchase of TV

first priority and passion is to represent the people of the Eighth Congressional District of Illinois. They need someone who will stand up for them in Washington, D.C. That is why I am running and that is why I will defeat liberal Melissa Bean next November."

Salvi filed her petition to run for Congress at the State Board of Elections in Springfield.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Yes, Lakeland, there is a Santa Claus

I was aghast at your "Snap Shots" column (Dec. 9, Section C) in which you published responses to your question about Santa. You have apparently lost the responsibility that has been part of your trade for many years.

In the New York Sun on Sept. 21, 1897, editor Francis R. Church wrote a marvelous piece in response to a letter from a young reader about Santa. It was called "Yes, Virginia, There is a Santa Claus!" Virginia, who was 8 years old, said in her letter: "If you see it in the Sun, it's so."

Seeing that 8-year-olds read the paper in 1897, it stands to reason that small children still read the paper today.

I, for one, agree with Mr. Church. There is a Santa Claus! Your column was thoughtless, and to you I say "Bah Humbug!"

For Allkids

Our society is unwilling to make the sacrifice to guarantee health care for all of its children, those who are the most vulnerable. That says something about us. But I am proud that our legislature has passed the Allkids law, which guarantees health care for all Illinois children.

I am not proud that my representative, Ed Sullivan (R-Mundelein), voted against Allkids. His usual excuse is that it will cost the government too much money. Maybe he doesn't realize that everyone can't afford health insurance for themselves or their kids. And that it also costs the government when we can't pay our medical bills. I think my representative has all of his priorities wrong. They aren't my priorities.

Wonders of Lake County

I enjoyed your article on the "Wonders of Lake County," but I was surprised that the College of Lake County was not among the top choices.

The College was chartered by the people for the people of the County and serves almost 16,000 students each semester. We have campuses in Grayslake and Waukegan as well as an Educational Center located in Vernon Hills. CLC offers a variety of educational options, including programs which transfer to four year colleges or universities; programs that will help students gain credentials and training to move directly into a career; and non-credit programs to support the various needs of life-long learners.

The College of Lake County's Business and Industry Training Center, Community Development Programs, English as a Second Language offerings, and cultural programs touch many, many residents of Lake County.

I know I have a certain bias in this regard, but I think that the College of Lake County is one of the greatest resources in northern Illinois. I am sure that many others will agree.

Connection made

Please join me in recognizing and thanking TDS Metrocom, the GLMV Chamber of Commerce, and the police departments of Libertyville and Vernon Hills for their support of "Operation Connect."

This ongoing joint project will allow men and women of the military serving in Iraq and Afghanistan to connect with their loved ones at home via hi-tech video conferencing. It was a privilege to witness the kick-off event and be able to send our good wishes to the troops with the help of the video and audio technology provided by TDS.

For more information on how to participate in "Operation Connect" visit the chamber Web site at www.glmvchamber.org/opn_connect.cfm. It truly is an honor to represent a community that cares so much for its own but especially those families who are separated during the holiday season. Special thanks to those who made this happen.

D127 tax increases exceed stated amount

The taxpayers in District 127 need to know what they really voted yes to on the 2001 referendum.

The citizens of this community voted for an increase from 1.710 percent to 2.105 percent as stated on the referendum ballot. That is not the case. The district tax increase has exceeded the stated amount. As far as I am concerned what the district is doing is deceiving.

This is the reason why this community has such a hard time passing referendums. The district needs to be forthcoming. After this who will vote yes again? What is this board thinking?

It is not illegal what district 127 is doing. But you be the judge, is it right to take more money from the taxpayers then was asked for on the referendum ballot?

The District is allowed to phase in the referendum over five years which means even more money will be taken from the taxpayers then listed on the ballot?

Raising awareness

It's natural to think of gatherings at home and being with family during the holiday season. But for survivors of sexual assault and incest, the holidays can be a difficult and stressful time of year. Unfortunately, their home and family might be the very things that make the holidays burdensome.

The holidays regularly include "mandatory" get togethers with seldom seen family members with whom socialization is minimal. Occasionally, the family is the place where a survivor was not supported during his or her ordeal, making intimate gatherings strenuous and painful.

While it may be more "comfortable" for people to think that most sexual assaults are perpetrated by "unknown strangers" or random attackers, in truth the vast majority (85%) of all sexual assaults are committed by someone the survivor knows and trusts.

By having to see people they might otherwise avoid, survivors are often triggered into remembering aspects of their abuse that might not be an issue other times of the year. As a result, depression may be more pronounced and anxiety levels higher as these individuals are faced with reminders of painful incidents and occurrences.

If you are a survivor facing the holidays with something less than excitement and anticipation, remember to set realistic goals for yourself about what you can and cannot handle regarding family gatherings. It's OK to say no and to be assertive about your needs and concerns. But try not to focus on the negative aspects of the coming season. Instead make a list of the things you are looking forward to doing and the people with whom you are looking forward to seeing.

If you know a survivor who is facing a difficult holiday season, you can help to reduce their trauma by simply being there for them and listening to their fears and concerns. The key is to be respectful of their feelings and supportive of how difficult this time of year can be. Remember that LaCASA's hotline 847-872-7799 is always available when things become too stressful. Our counselors and advocates offer many services that could ease some of the difficulties that may arise this upcoming holiday season.

Baxter, county partner on trail project

Local wildlife and neighbors living along the Millennium Trail route in western Lake County stand to benefit from an environmental partnership between the Lake County Forest Preserves and Baxter Healthcare Corporation.

Baxter granted a trail easement through a portion of its Round Lake campus, north of Route 120 and Wilson Road, to the Forest Preserves to allow for the connection of the Millennium Trail to adjacent Marl Flat Forest Preserve near Volo.

Baxter also will provide landscaping on their land adjacent to the trail easement. With the Forest Preserve's landscaping on the trail easement, this will create natural areas on either side of the trail corridor.

Engineering is now underway along this section of the planned 35-mile Millennium Trail, with construction scheduled to begin in mid-2006, pending receipt of all regulatory permits. The trail will run east-west adjacent to the Valley Lakes subdivision within the trail easement located on Baxter property. It will also pass through a small portion of Nature's Cove subdivision where it will connect to Marl Flat. In December 2002, Baxter sold 71 acres to the Lake County Forest Preserves adjacent to Marl Flat, expanding the Preserve to 207 acres.

"This is an ideal location and solution," said Bonnie Thomson Carter, president of Lake County Forest Preserves. "It meets the needs of our neighbors and creates new native plant and animal habitats. We hope trail users will feel like they are walking through the middle of a forest preserve."

Baxter's partnership with the Forest Preserves offers a unique opportunity to make a good trail project even better for the community and especially for adjacent homeowners. The Forest Preserve's 50-foot-wide trail corridor will include a 12-foot-wide gravel trail for hiking and biking and a natural landscaped buffer area.

In an effort to place a more natural buffer between the Millennium Trail and the homeowners' property, Baxter will landscape an additional 50-foot-wide corridor on their property next to the trail to help widen the trail environment. With the extra width, a 38-foot natural landscaping buffer will be created between the trail and homeowners' property. In addition, Baxter will work with the Forest Preserves to establish natural areas on both sides of the trail to encourage the growth of native prairie and woodland species. When complete, the trail will be framed by native trees, grasses, and plants designed to attract a variety of wildlife and create a scenic passageway.

"We have been enthusiastic supporters of the Millennium Trail project for several years, and look forward to continuing our support through this latest initiative," said Joe Wolfsberger, vice president of Environment, Health and Safety for Baxter.

Call for gender conference proposals

The deadline for submitting proposals for the College of Lake County's 4th Annual Gender Conference is Jan. 6, 2006. "Gender Works: Building an Equitable Future for All" will be at the College of Lake County on April 21-22, 2006.

Conference participants will present and discuss their academic work and ideas on gender issues. The conference will seek to dispel the myth of gender-defined work and promote dialog on gender work, in order to create an equitable workforce for everyone. Projects may be in the form of research, critical essay, personal essay, proposal for plan of action, multi-media presentation, slide presentation, photo display or performance art.

Presenters must submit their proposals by Jan. 6 and will be notified of the status of their entry later in January. Topic suggestions, guidelines, registration and program information can be found on the Women's Center Web site at www.clcillinois.edu/womenscenter.

For more information, call 847-543-2771. Proposals may be e-mailed to womcen@clcillinois.edu or faxed to 847-543-3955, attention Teresa Aguinaldo. The Women's Center is located in room B212 in the Student Services Center at the Grayslake Campus.

Rogers completes four leases

Arthur J. Rogers & Co., a partner in The CORE Network, announced that Norman Ross, vice president of the firm, recently completed four leases throughout the Chicagoland area.

FX Reprographics, a blueprint reproduction service provider, has renewed 15,000 square feet of industrial space within Rogers Executive Park at 50 Lakeview Parkway, Suites 112-115 in Vernon Hills. Ross also completed a 2,700 square foot new industrial lease at 1586 Barclay Boulevard within Rogers Centre for Commerce in Buffalo Grove.

Tom Blair, Inc., a television production company, also completed a 2,630 square foot lease transaction within Rogers Centre for Commerce. In the final transaction, Ross leased 1,860 square feet of industrial space to Texmac, Inc. The circuit board testing firm leased the space at 224 Terrace Drive within the Terrace Trade Center in Mundelein. The firm cited the location and ability to customize the space as reasons for their selection. Ross represented ownership and the tenant in the lease transaction.

Extension receives funding

The Lake County Extension Foundation and University of Illinois Extension Lake County acknowledges the contribution of Laurie Tansey. Tansey is an employee of Discover Financial Services (a Morgan Stanley Company) and has volunteered with U of I Extension in numerous capacities. In September 2003, Laurie joined the Lake County Advisory Council and served as the chairperson of the marketing committee.

Laurie has been personally responsible for both the foundation and the extension receiving funding to further our mission of providing life skills training to both adults and youth.

AARP tax-aide seeks volunteers for 2006

Medline hits $2 billion in sales

Sales growth projected to Exceed 10 percent

Medline Industries, Inc., the nation's largest privately held manufacturer and distributor of healthcare supplies announced this week that the company hit $2 billion in sales this week and projects 2005 and 2006 sales growth of more than 10 percent. In just the past five years, the company has doubled its sales volume. Over that same period Medline has averaged between 10 and 15 percent growth each year, significantly outpacing the sales growth of its major competitors.

Based in Mundelein, Medline is the leading direct supplier of medical supplies with a ranking of No. 163 on Forbes magazine's list of the top 500 private companies. Company executives credit exemplary "can do" culture and a company-wide strategy to find innovative solutions that are guaranteed to provide real value to customers.

"There are two simple things at the core of our success: great employees and great customers. Medline has the best employees working to gain the most loyal customer base in the industry. We've been fortunate to combine an extremely knowledgeable sales force of nearly 800 professionals in North America with thousands of other hard-working employees," said Medline President Andy Mills. "Everyone at Medline focuses on providing the best customer service and the greatest value through innovative programs and products that really answer our customers' needs."

Creating value

Medline has a history of success rooted in being able to meet customer needs with product and program innovation. Examples of these products and programs include:

First colored surgeon's gown designed to help reduce glare and ease eye fatigue.

Proxima surgical gowns use the most technically advanced fabric from DuPont, called Supre!™ to provide the strongest, softest and most breathable gowns providing crucial comfort and protection to surgeons who spend hours in the operating room.

HaloShield® antimicrobial textiles with advanced technology has been shown to be 99.9 percent effective at killing dangerous bacteria such as methicillin-resistant Staphylococcus aureus (MRSA).

Aloetouch® gloves, the first gloves to use a freeze-dried aloe coating. Aloetouch gloves help promote proper hand hygiene by moisturizing, hydrating and soothing the skin.

Arglaes® and Silvasorb® advanced wound care dressings with impregnated silver that helps prevent infection without the use of antibiotics.

Educare® hotline for wound care product support. Hotline is supervised by board-certified ET/WOC nurses so callers can speak directly to a nurse and get answers to questions about wound and skin care product use.

Fit Right Program helps nursing homes provide the proper fit for incontinence products.

ucts helping to meet CMS guidelines and reduce costs.

Compass program for survey readiness. A comprehensive system of educational aids, best-practice protocols and clinical tools that help clinicians meet standards of practice, improve care outcomes and be "survey-ready" all the time.

Clinical Education programs that provide ongoing education for nursing staff that can positively impact major industry challenges including quality of care, staff development and financial status.

Guaranteed cost containment

Healthcare facilities are feeling financial pressure from reimbursement cuts and competition. As a manufacturer that delivers direct to the healthcare facility, Medline eliminates the middleman and offers manufacturer-direct pricing. Jim Abrams, chief operating officer for Medline, said that being both a manufacturer and a distributor gives Medline distinct advantages over its competitors, especially in terms of delivering value and cost savings to its customers. Each of Medline's cost containment programs offers a guaranteed savings component.

"We've significantly expanded our infrastructure of distribution centers to provide cost management solutions both as a manufacturer and prime vendor to hospitals and IDNs nationwide," said Abrams. "When a healthcare facility anywhere in the country needs medical supplies our massive network of distribution centers and fleet of delivery trucks ensure that we can deliver the next day."

Medline has experienced continuous rapid growth in distribution capabilities within just the past five years. Since 2000, Medline has gone from owning three and leasing 12 branches to now owning 16 new world-class, fully integrated distribution centers and leasing 12. Over this same period, Medline has increased its distribution area by more than 3 million sq. ft.

Nearly 2,000 employees in Lake County

Medline is one of the largest employers in Lake County, with nearly 2,000 employees and more than 5,000 in North America. Medline distributes more than 100,000 products to hospitals, extended care facilities, surgery centers, hospital laundries, home care dealers and agencies and other alternate site markets from its 28 distribution centers in the U.S. With seven manufacturing facilities in North America, Medline manufactures 70 percent of the products it sells.

History dates back to 1910

Medline's roots date back to 1910 when A.L. Mills, the great-grandfather of the current owners, had a garment factory that manufactured textile products for general industry and the medical field. In 1930, A.L.'s son Irving took over the business. Following World War II, building hospitals became a priority in the country, and consequently, Irving turned all of his efforts on making textiles for the medical marketplace and expanded to general medical supplies.

In 1966, Irving's sons, Jim and Jon, with five other employee shareholders, redeveloped the business as Medline Industries, Inc. The company moved from Northbrook to its current headquarters in Mundelein in 1984 when sales were $111 million. Today, Charlie Mills, Andy Mills and Jim Abrams are the fourth generation to manage the company, along with 60 employee owners.

LAKE COUNTY HEALTH DEPARTMENT AND COMMUNITY

Health Department Offers Free Breast and Cervical Cancer Screening

Free breast and cervical cancer screenings are offered to eligible Lake County women through the Illinois Breast and Cervical Cancer Program (IBCCP), located at the Lake County Health Department/Community Health Center. Through the program, women can receive, at no cost to them, a complete medical examination, a clinical breast exam and a pap test, as well as referral for a free mammogram at a local hospital. Ongoing yearly exams and medical follow-up are provided. Women 35 years of age or older, who are underinsured or uninsured, and whose family income does not exceed 200% of federal poverty guidelines are eligible for this free program. Examinations are done at the clinics of the Lake County Health Department/Community Health Center, also through private providers, and are by appointment. To find out if you are eligible, please call the Health Department at 847-377-8430.

PARENT'S PLACE

Dr. Sherri Singer

With the holiday season approaching, I wanted to tell you about something that my family does every year. I think this will be valuable information for your readers! We believe that the holidays are more about giving than getting. Each year, we have our kids round up the toys that are gathering dust or the toys they have outgrown, that are still in good condition, and have them help us get them in order to donate to charity so other kids who are less fortunate can have toys to play with. We have found that involving our kids in the process has been very rewarding. Our kids love this ritual as much as they love getting the new toys. We also do this with our clothing each year. We believe that kids should know how to have fun giving as well as getting and I hope that by sharing this with your readers, more people will do the same thing. D.K.

Dear D.K.,

What a wonderful thought and ritual. I think that many of us do get caught up in what we will get as opposed to what we will give. Especially kids. When you think about it, the actual real meaning of the holidays is about giving to others. We also all get caught up in what we will get for others in our family, as opposed to the many out there who don't have the ability to even get

Toys can teach kids about giving to others for their own family.

I think it would be wonderful if everyone who reads this column did this very thing with their kids. All of us have toys and games laying around the house that don't get used anymore but are in good condition. We also all have articles of clothing that we haven't worn in decades, that are in great condition, that are (be honest) 5 sizes too small, but we still hang on to that notion that we will fit into them again, come "H.E. double hockey sticks" or high water! Wouldn't that article of clothing or lonely toy be better used by someone who didn't have it, than by your closet or shelf?

There is another neat little thing that is available to do around this time of year. Our family tries to do this each and every year. Usually, the bigger department stores have Christmas trees with the names of kids, hanging in the tree. Each name represents a child that is in need. We usually go and get a few names each year and get them something they need. The note-card usually tells you what the age is and also what they need, so you know what to get for them. Kids usually love this, because they are learning how to feel important by giving. There is no feeling like it in the world. Toys R Us and Babies R Us usually have cards for donating money gifts to be used toward the purchases of toys for kids that don't have any. Toys for tots is also really doing a great promotion this year through UPS and other locations. I know that the Grayslake Jewel has a box at the front for Toys for tots. We are going to make a special trip to Jewel just so our kids can pick out some toys to put in that box.

Along a similar line, those that know me, know that I love animals in a big way too and another thing we do at this time of year is make sure to take food, toys and donations to several animal shelters. A couple of them that I know of are Save a Pet in Round Lake and Orphan's of the Storm in Riverwoods. There are many more. Many of you have pets that you and your kids love. This is another way to help your kids learn the meaning of the fun of giving.

Let's all take part this year in D.K.'s ritual. Make sure to help your kids feel special by giving to others. Instead of adults getting all the things together for giving in a quiet way, involve your kids so that they can learn from being involved with it. We all get so much more out of life by giving than by getting!

So, get out there and give!

Condell provides cold and flu facts

Condell Medical Center recently asked several members of the medical staff to provide facts about colds and flu. Here is what they had to say.

Q. What are the differences between the common cold and influenza (the flu)?

A. Family practitioner Guy Abderholden, MD, responded, "Common cold symptoms usually include a low-grade fever, chills, runny or stuffy nose, watery eyes, sneezing and a cough. Symptoms of the flu include high fever and chills lasting days, headache, body ache, fatigue, weakness, eye and muscle pain, and a dry cough. Neither of these viral illnesses will respond to antibiotics."

Q. What can you do if you catch a cold?

A. Family practitioner Jason Johnson, MD indicates, "A cold is an upper respiratory condition caused by a virus. Because antibiotics do not affect viruses, taking an antibiotic will not shorten the cold's duration. It's best is to get rest, drink fluids, and eat right. Over-the-counter medications, such as acetaminophen, decongestant, and cough suppressants may help with your discomfort."

Q. Should you starve a fever and feed a cold?

A. Internist Jennifer Bare, MD, suggests, "Always feed a fever. A fever can deplete your body of fluid, so you need to stay hydrated. At least eight ounces of fluid, eight times per day is needed when you have a fever above 101°F. Drink fluids such as water, Gatorade or chicken noodle soup."

Q. Who should receive the flu vaccine?

A. Family practitioner Irina Harag, MD explains, "The flu vaccine should be administered to everyone, but certain groups have a higher risk of getting the flu. These groups include children aged six to 23 months, people 65 years of age or older, adults and children with chronic conditions such as diabetes, and travelers in areas where the flu is likely to be circulating."

Q. How do you know when to see the doctor if you have the cold or the flu?

A. Internist Mohina Gupta, MD, advises, "Any symptoms of upper respiratory infection lasting more than four to five days, including persistent fever and cough, warrant a visit to the doctor. People with conditions like asthma, and diabetes need to call earlier."

It's a wonderful time of the year to sell a home

If you are adding a "For Sale" sign to your home's outdoor holiday decorations this season, bring cheer inside your home to attract buyers.

"Selling your home over the holidays can be a good thing. Buyers during this time of year are just as serious about finding a house as sellers are about getting rid of theirs," said Patrick O'Rourke, regional vice president of Coldwell Banker Residential Brokerage.

Set your home apart from the others by staging it to sell this holiday season:

• Celebrate thoughtfully. Homeowners should show off their home's architectural features through decorating rather than showcase their own belongings. "Showing a home during the holidays is a chance to reveal it at its very best, but be aware that not all home shoppers are celebrating the same holiday as you," said O'Rourke. "Keep holiday decorations as a seasonal accent so buyers see the home, not just the adornments."

• Be timely. Holiday decorations can annoy potential buyers if they are put out too soon, or left out too long. If possible, wait to put the decorations up until after Thanksgiving, and take them down by the first weekend in January.

Leverage the season. Get buyers into the holiday spirit with housewarming scents. Try boiling cinnamon sticks on the stove or have pine-scented potpourri placed around the house to create a holiday atmosphere. Maintain a clear driveway and keep porches and walkways free of all debris, snow and ice before buyers tour your home.

SILENT LIGHTS, HOLY LIGHTS

The La Salette Festival of Lights, featuring 50,000 glittering lights at the La Salette Shrine on Hwy. KD, just south of Twin Lakes and North of the Antioch Twp. border, drew thousands of visitors from Lake County.

30 YEARS AGO 1975

A final decision on the future of a picnic area near Six Flags in Gurnee proposed by Marriott was ready for a vote after months of arguing over the issue.

Gurnee trustees took a giant step by voting to turn down the purported recommendations to send the matter of proper usage of the land to the zoning board of appeals.

Attorney George Weaver, who represented residents of the Oakwood subdivision near the site, submitted a letter to the village reiterating the facts for the objections on the picnic area, which was planned to be south of the subdivision on the west side of Route 21.

20 YEARS AGO 1985

Sketch plans for the West Trails Subdivision, the newest subdivision of single-family homes proposed for Grayslake at the time, was given the nod of approval by both the village board and the Grayslake planning commission.

Developer John Waldenstrom said pre-sales of the lots had been good with several lots already committed to by builders and others on option.

15 YEARS AGO 1990

Then-Grayslake Mayor Marvin Smith announced that the village was purchasing the First of America Bank building at 33 S. Whitney St. for use as a new village hall.

The purchase had been discussed previously by the board, which authorized the mayor's negotiations with the bank. Originally, the board had approved negotiations "up to $700,000."

Health Dept. to offer more flu clinics

If you haven't received your flu shot yet, vaccine is still available. The Lake County Health Department/Community Health Center is offering flu clinics in December and January at the Belvidere Annex Immunization Clinic, at 2303 Dodge Avenue in Waukegan. No appointment is necessary.

The clinic will offer flu shots on the following dates and times: Dec. 17, from 9 a.m.-noon; Monday, Dec. 19, from 9 to 11 a.m.; Thursday, Dec. 22, from 9 to 11 a.m.; Thursday, Jan. 5, from 9 to 11 a.m.; Jan. 9, from 9 to 11 a.m. and Thursday, Jan. 12, from 9 to 11 a.m.

"While the best time to get vaccinated is in October or November, you can still benefit from getting a shot," said Dale Galassie, the Health Department's Executive Director. "Flu activity generally peaks between late December and March. Once you get vaccinated, your body will make protective antibodies in about two weeks."

Persons 65 and over should bring their Medicare part B cards to the clinics, which will cover the cost of the flu and pneumonia vaccines. Those not on Medicare part B will be charged $25 for the flu vaccine and $35 for the pneumonia vaccine. Medicaid and Kidcare are also accepted.

In addition to getting a flu shot, the Health Department is promoting three other practices that help prevent the flu: cover your mouth when you cough; regularly wash your hands for 20 seconds; and stay home when you are sick.

Christmas trees help bring troops cheer

By Steve Peterson

Richardson Farms, in cooperation with FedEx, new Holland and the Christmas Spirit Foundation is hoping to bring Christmas home to U.S. troops all over the world.

More than 3,500 troops will receive the Christmas trees.

An international shipment of fresh, farm-grown trees left Columbus, Ohio on Nov. 15. Trees bound for troops and families at U.S. bases will be collected this week, at Richardson Farms in Spring Grove on Dec. 1.

"This is the first time, FedEx wanted to do something and Christmas tree growers associations from 17 states are part of it. We expect to ship six to seven-foot tall trees along three pretty extensive routes," said George Richardson.

The Trees for Troops program provides a way for all Americans to show their appreciation for the sacrifices that U.S. troops and their families are making this holiday season. Members of the National Christmas Tree Association (NCTA) and more than 12 state-regional Christmas tree associations are donating the Christmas trees. FedEx is providing free shipping and New Holland is providing logistical support.

Interested citizens may show their support by visiting www.ChristmasSpiritFoundation.org and leave a message for the troops or by making a contribution to support the program. The Christmas Spirit Foundation is a 501c3 public charity dedicated to children, families and the environment. For more details, including routes, go to www.ChristmasSpiritFoundation.org.

Richardson Farms' annual sale of Christmas trees started Nov. 25. For more information, call 815-675-9729 or visit the Web site, www.RichardsonFarm.com. Hours of Christmas tree sales are 9 a.m. to dark. Richardson Farm is located at 9407 Richardson Road in Spring Grove.

"Each year, someone comes up to the farm on Christmas Eve and we always sell them a tree," Richardson said.

For the love of the game

Libertyville hosts a college football fair for smaller institutions to make contact with area players

Just the simple words "college football" now evoke thoughts of an ever-growing commercial empire with merchandising, bowl games with sponsor names and stadiums packed with tens of thousands of fans more concerned with getting on TV than watching the games.

However, there are other games out there for players who might not have been the prototypical athlete. Who were good, maybe even great, but not spectacular. The increasingly rare breed of athletes who simply play the game because they love it.

Libertyville football coach Randy Kuceyeski created a fair for smaller colleges to give them a chance to meet up with area football players. For some colleges, it gives them a chance to meet a player who might have slipped through the cracks, for others, it's simply to put some faces with names (and maybe more accurately, numbers).

"The D-1 prospects have no problem making contact with coaches because their names are already out there," Kuceyeski said. "The D-2's and the D-3 kids who want to keep playing, there's really nothing out there to help them make contact with coaches, that's why I originally started doing this...It allows these guys to make contact with kids and it allows some of the kids to get their names out there."

At that level of play, dreams of becoming a millionaire pro star and even making it to the NFL have disappeared. Instead of worrying about the level where you're paid to play, many simply want to keep participating in the game they love.

"I just want to go to college. I want to get an education and extend my (football) career for as far as it will go," Lakes High junior Joey Crowell said. "Right now, the plan is to go to college and play football, get a degree and then become a teacher and coach football. I just want to extend my career."

Crowell isn't alone in this simple goal. Warren Blue Devil Zach Narens was another of the estimated 150 attendees who said that he wants to keep the helmet on for as long as there's a team that will take him.

"I'll ride it as far as it will go," Warren senior Zach Narens said. "As long as I get to hit people without getting in trouble, I'll play football."

Libertyville lineman Matt Szkodyn said he would also like to take his career to the next level, but cited distance as another factor in his decision to aim for D-2 or D-3.

"I would like to play to a limit, I wouldn't do it if I had to go to some college across the country," Szkodyn said. "I would like to play for a school that's around the area...I came here to get some face-to-face time with some of the coaches, give it a shot and see what happens."

As for the colleges, the fair allows coaches to take a look at some of the area's talent without the legwork of going to individual high schools. What they can offer for the students isn't just fun on the football field, but financial help as well. While Division I-A schools are allowed 85 scholarships, Division I-

AA schools are allowed 63 and D-2 schools are given 36. Division III schools are not allowed to give scholarships, but are allowed to give package deals where expenses such as book costs are lightened and even waived.

"It's a good way to get names, especially juniors that you may want to have an eye out for in the next season," University of Wisconsin-Platteville Assistant Football Coach Bill Diesing said.

"You can find kids we might have missed and there's some schools that you just can't get to...This is really the only (fair) where you can actually meet with the students, so it's a very important recruiting tool."

Nuthin' but a Grant thang

Way back in April, I previewed the area spring sports scene to the tune of the southern rock classic, "Free Bird." As much as that was a shining moment in my career, I thought I might bring things into my own generation by relaying my thoughts on Grant's girls basketball team.

The Bulldogs remain one of the strongest teams in the area despite playing without one of their strongest performers, junior Becka Gonyo, as she works to overcome illness. That was only the beginning for the team as one-by-one their starters went down as Kaela Munster and Lauren Liles both succumbed to knee injuries. As coach Tom Oeffling said, "It has gotten to the point where we're laughing about it, not crying."

One thing's for sure, Grant's opponents are crying. Despite the trouble, they bolted out to a 10-0 start and 4-0 in the Prairie. In order to celebrate their excellence in a language the young folks can understand, I give you "Nuthin' but a Grant Thang" to the tune of Dr. Dre and Snoop Dogg's classic rap anthem, "Nuthin' but a G Thang."

Coordinator Henry Hiemenz, part of the rules of affiliation for Carroll is that no official recruiting trips can be made to high schools, making Kuceyeski's fair an invaluable tool for the team.

"We usually see about 10 to 15 kids and a lot of them are contacted by the coaches," Hiemenz said. "It definitely helps us because we're able to take a look at some kids we might not have been able to have any contact from normally."

Whatever the motivation or the school, some smaller colleges could be in the future of some of Lake County's best gridiron talent.

"I don't want to give it up, I want to play football for the next four years," Warren talent David Kierna said. "Our head coach said it might be a good way for us to get our names out there so we could play in college and that's what I want to do."

you see Showin' much flex when it's time to rock a gym
Dishing rocks and droppin' shots,

all net, never rim
Yeah, and it don't quit
They've got their eyes on the prize and won't stop till they get it

So hey, what up 'Dogs?
You've gotta give fans what they want.
What's that G?
You gotta break 'em off somethin'
Oh yeah
And it's gotta be bumpin'
Grant gym's rockin'!

Fox Lake's where it takes place
so I'm a ask your attention Mobbin' point guards in the back court and lane pinchin' Blockin' the funky shots that's makin' the enemy's score crumble
When they're on the floor, droppin' shots, making coaches mumble
Try to get close, your pass'll get sacked
Every single Grant Bulldog's got each other's back
Never let leads slip, 'cause if they slip, then their game's slippin'
But if they got back, their game's like Scott Pippen
And if you ever think to put their game down, you're a clown
And if you don't believe it, Grant will have to put the smack down
Yeah, and it don't stop! I told you, their game's just like a clock,
it just ticks and it tocks
Shots are never off, always on,
'til the tournament's on
B-U-L-L-D-O-G, and the village
they call Fox Lake
Puttin' their game together
Like old Dr. J, no one can do it better

Like this, that and this and uh
It's like this and like that and like this and uh
It's like this, and you should be watchin' those!
So just fill their gym and buy their clothes!

Worth the weight

Corsair wrestling program enjoying successful run thanks to experience, talent

By Dan Patrick
Sports Editor

Weight; such a simple concept, yet it means so many different things for different people. Webster's Dictionary defines weight as...just kidding. For wrestlers, weight plays as much of a part in their lives as an anorexic supermodel.

Weight classes, with just five pounds of separation dividing most classes, can mean the difference between a glorious victory and a humiliating defeat for wrestlers at the high school level.

Besides dividing the team into categories, weight classes have another effect on teams - competition, especially big ones. For the Carmel Corsair wrestling team with its 80-person strong roster, there has been more jockeying for position than for a starting spot on the basketball roster.

"We have a pretty big number of guys out this season so we have competition all over the place," Corsair coach Joe Scordino said. "We have a main guy and a backup in almost every weight class and that's good for us because it brings out the best in our guys."

The weight class where this "problem" is most evident is at the 152-pound designation. At last weekend's Buffalo Grove Invitational, Carmel tied for second place in a field of eight teams, thanks largely to the 1-2 finish of Ryan Williams and John Houser in the 152.

Williams, who defeated Houser for top honors in the tournament, was actually the second choice going into the invitational. But with a little luck and a lack of 152-pounders from other schools, both grapplers got the nod.

"We had extra guys who were ready to compete, so we brought the extra guys with us," Scordino said. "There was an extra opening in the 152-pound class, so we got Ryan Williams registered to wrestle and he ended up beating John Houser."

Apparently, Buffalo Grove hadn't been the first place where Williams and Houser had tested each other's skills. If there's the type of competition for positions where multiple Carmel wrestlers can have podium finishes in big invitationals, it's an obviously good sign for the Corsair faithful.

"These two guys (Williams and Houser) have been going at it for a while and we had an opening, so we wrestled them both," Scordino said. "What we're going to do from here is that somebody's going to go up or somebody's going to go down. They're both good wrestlers, so we'll find a way to fit them both in."

'I really think they're ahead of where we were at this point last year ... last year, we finished 13-8 and I think this team has taken it up a notch and should be able to do more this season. Last year, we had seven wrestlers with 20 or more wins and I think we could improve on that too.'

Joe Scordino
Corsair coach

The duo of 152's weren't the only Corsairs who came away from the tournament with a little "bling." Carmel also had champions in the 125 (D.J. Fairfield), 145 (Joe Schnur) while there were also multiple podium finishers.

"We're 1-1 now and we finished second at Buffalo Grove, that's something to be proud of because it's a pretty big tournament in our area," Scordino said. "I thought we did pretty well. We had champions DJ Fairfield at 125, Joe Schnur 145, we had two of our wrestlers at 152 Ryan Williams who won it and then John Houser who came in second. We had a Dan Clinton finished second at heavyweight and two third place finishers, Ryan Unrein at 140 and Bill Battistone at 160."

With so many place-winners up and down the Carmel weight classes, Scordino has a reason to have some optimism about this season's prospects on the mat.

"I really think they're ahead of where we were at this point last year," Scordino said. "Last year, we finished 13-8 and I think this team has taken it up a notch and should be able to do more this season. Last year, we had seven wrestlers with 20 or more wins and I think we could improve on that too."

The secret to Carmel's success, other than a good tradition, is experience. The Corsairs came into the season fully locked and loaded after a moderately successful campaign a year ago. Regardless of the reason, if Scordino has anything to say about, the success has only begun.

"Our goal is to keep competitive and be one of the best teams in the area," Scordino said. "We just have a lot of returning wrestlers with a lot of experience who did some good things last year. We've got Andrew Federer who went to the sectionals, Ryan Williams was another sectional qualifier, D.J. Fairfield is always good, Clinton was 23-12 last year, Bill Battistone was 18-12 and Schnur is one of

When the going gets tough...

By Dan Patrick
Sports Editor

Tradition is a hard thing to keep up in sports, even though some programs make it look so easy. The North Suburban Conference Prairie Division has long stood as one of the strongest wrestling conferences in the area and the Wauconda Bulldogs have been one of those pesky teams fighting for contention.

For years, Wauconda has stood amongst the best in area wrestling teams, yet according to veteran coach Tom Nance, something has been missing this season.

"We're just slightly below where I expected this team would be at this stage of the season," Nance said. "This has been a pretty tough year for us because we're used to doing a little bit better than this."

Less than a month into the season, it may be a little premature to make judgment calls about teams, but Nance has some extenuating circumstances. Participation has rarely been a problem for a program as strong as Wauconda's, but this year was different. Nance said the Bulldogs usually field a roster of at least spread amongst the varsity, sophomore and freshman ranks.

This season brought a wicked mix of a small initial roster (40), coupled with injuries and some youngsters leaving the program, leaving the veteran coach with only 30 Bulldogs still on the active roster. However, even the senior class hasn't been a sure thing for Wauconda.

"We lost four seniors for various reasons and we currently have only one senior in our lineup still wrestling," Nance said. "We lost one senior to an injured back... Anthony Brown had the back problem and that hurt us because he was one of our captains and a very experienced wrestler."

Nance isn't the only one hurting over the loss of Brown. The injury has left the senior veteran without a chance to showcase his skills in his senior year - a year when most athletes have perfected their game and can finally bask in their own glory.

"The injury was so bad that there's no chance of (Brown) returning," Nance said. "It's hard to put into words how painful that is for a kid like that. He put a fair amount of work into the off-season to get better and make a name for himself in his senior year, so it was pretty devastating when he got injured."

The lack of seniors isn't the only problem for the Bulldogs. Nance has been left without a good stable of freshmen to build a program upon, despite his coaching staff's best efforts to attract new wrestlers.

'This has been a pretty tough year for us because we're used to doing a little bit better than this.'

Tom Nance
Wauconda wrestling coach

"We had a number of freshmen who came up and gave it a shot but trailed away for various reasons, whether it was personal or if they couldn't take the work we do during practice," Nance said. "We've been on a very good recruiting blitz throughout the year, but with minimal success."

The lack of grapplers has left Wauconda with little options in competition this season as they rarely wrestle a full roster. When facing the powerful Grant Bulldogs, Nance only fielded a roster of seven grapplers.

"It varies how many wrestlers we'll put in during a meet because we want to put in guys we feel can beat the competition and have a good chance in the meet," Nance said. "Against Grant, who's had a very strong program and a good team this year, we only wrestled seven guys... But when we go against some of the weaker teams, we're throwing a lot of youngsters in there because we know there's a chance they could win and score some points for us."

"We're trying to put them in a situation where we think we have a chance to win, but if we go against a team like Grant, we're going to forfeit because we don't want our guys to get discouraged or hurt against better wrestlers."

As dire as the situation may be for the Wauconda wrestlers, all hope is not lost. For junior Nick Swanson, it might be a fresh air. The highly-touted veteran is living up to expectations, racking up a 12-2 record at this point in the season.

"He (Swanson) is doing pretty well for us, I'd say he's about where we expected him to be at this point," Nance said. "A really nice surprise for us has been Scott Carlson who's been doing rather well this year in the 135. He's got a lot of club experience and he's done rather well."

Perhaps the biggest star for the Bulldogs has been Rob Champion. Living up to his surname, Nance said the junior 189-pounder has stood as a reminder to the team that despite any challenge, success can still be had for the team.

"Rob Champion has wrestled hurt, he has been a leader as far as work ethic and he has made significant improvement to his individual game," Nance said. "We're really appreciating the things he's bringing to the practices and to the meets because it's showing the other guys that if they work hard, they can win."

Devil dominance

Warren's girls basketball team deals with the troubles of being at the top of the hill

By Dan Patrick
Sports Editor

There's nothing like being the best, regardless of what the activity is. There's bragging rights involved and all the spoils of being "The Best," but the downside is the big, golden "B" sitting on your chest becomes a target for everyone else.

The Warren Blue Devils girls basketball team has been consistently ranked amongst area coaches as one of the state's best and their 8-3 (3-0 NSC-Lake) record does not contradict that. With their current roster of stars such as Sarah Boothe, Giuleanna Lopez and Melanie Duplessis, the "Best" moniker is firmly attached to Warren's chest and the Blue Devil coach recognizes the danger in such an honor.

"Right now, every team circles the troops

'Right now, every team circles the troops around themselves to get ready to play us. We get everyone's best effort so we can't overlook anyone.'

John Stanczykiewicz

around themselves to get ready to play us," Stanczykiewicz said. "We get everyone's best effort so we can't overlook anyone."

For Stanczykiewicz, the danger might be with playing teams within the North Suburban Conference as opposed to the high-powered teams outside of the Gurnee area such as New Trier the veteran coach added to the schedule as tune-ups for the postseason.

While the ranked opponents look bigger on paper, the danger lies in NSC teams' familiarity with the Blue Devils and their style of play.

"We have to be ready for the teams in our conference because they are all well-coached and they will all be gunning for us," Stanczykiewicz said. "It took last year's team until after Christmas to figure that out and be ready mentally for every game. Hopefully, this team will learn that as well."

"I think what it is is that we're now playing teams that know us really well as opposed to teams like New Trier or other teams like that."

Boothe echoed her coaches' sentiments, saying that the Mustangs brought a game that was just as challenging as some of the state's best to the Blue Devil hardwood. The familiarity factor led to more bumps and bruises than usual for the 6-foot-4-inch sophomore center.

"They were more aggressive than any other team that we've played this year," Boothe said. "They were double- and triple-teaming me so I couldn't get many good shots off...Against some of the other teams we've played, they were constantly playing me just one-on-one so it was a bit easier for me."

The challenge of everyone's goal to slay the giant that is Warren girls basketball might be a constant nuisance, but some of the players choose to look at it as a measure of respect from their opponents.

"I think it's fun because it makes you feel good about yourself knowing that everyone's trying to bring their best game just to beat you," Boothe said. "It also helps our overall game because we're forced to play at a higher level all the time because we know that everyone is coming for us and that should help us get ready for the tournament."

While Warren's coach would rather his team follow Boothe's advice and approach every game as if it were their last, Stanczykiewicz said their play can suffer as a result of Warren's perch atop the area's girls basketball scene.

Last week's 50-21 Blue Devil win against the Mundelein Mustangs may look like a complete blowout on paper, but the coach was not pleased with the resolve his team showed in the early going. Luckily for Warren, all the gears seemed to click in the second quarter and the Blue Devils never looked back after that point.

"I don't think we came out mentally ready to play our best basketball," Warren coach John Stanczykiewicz said. "His (Mundelein coach Brian Evans) kids played really hard and challenged us on the glass...The kids worked really hard for every shot that they got and they were able to work through the frustration to get the win."

Every Warren opponent bringing their "A" game should be something the Blue Devils are getting used to, especially after last season's impressive run. But with the meat of the season still yet to come, the Lady Devils should be ready for it.

PREPROFILES

Sarah Boothe
Sophomore center

It's not easy being big. If you need proof of that, just go see the blockbuster remake of King Kong, either that or check out a Warren girls basketball game and center sensation Sarah Boothe.

Boothe, a 6-foot-4-inch Blue Devil recently scored her 500th point - just 10 games into her sophomore season. Her stature, and more importantly her game, has attracted a lot of attention to the sophomore.

Despite the 6'4" and the 500 that now defines her to most people, Boothe tries to elevate her game past the numbers.

"I don't really take it in, I just try to play hard and play my game," Boothe said. "My family told me not to worry about how many points I've scored or what the newspapers are saying and go out, work hard and have fun."

As for her family, her height comes from both sides as her father stands at 6-foot-3 while her mother is an even 6-feet. Boothe's brother David, a 6-foot-1-inch football player, has had to play the unenviable role of the shorter older brother. Despite the three to four inches of separation between the siblings, Boothe said David has fought off the Napoleon complex with ease.

"I've been taller than him for a while, but he never was mean about it or anything," Boothe said. "I know it bothers him, but my brother's really supportive of me and what I've done and it's been really helpful."

It's difficult to even speak of the area girls basketball scene without Boothe's name coming up. Such attention makes the young star an easy target for opponents. That, coupled with the usual war in the trenches underneath the basket leads to many bumps and bruises, but again, she refuses to let it go to her head.

"I've gotten used to it over the years because they used to push me around when I was little and it was no fouls," Boothe said. "I try not to let it get to me, but sometimes I have to take a step back and take a deep breath."

With the level of her game, it might be more accurate to say that it's Lake County that needs to take a deep breath.

Opponents impressed with 'scrappy' play

Mundelein seeks to get back on track during string of tough opponents

By Dan Patrick
Sports Editor

There's a lot to be said about the Mundelein girls basketball team these days. Sure, they've taken some hard beatings against Johnsburg and now Warren, but to come out to stand at a 6-3 record (2-2 North Suburban Conference Lake Division) in a "rebuilding" season is quite impressive.

Last Tuesday's 50-21 box score in the loss against the Blue Devils certainly belies the game the Mustangs put up. If there's any question of that, just ask Warren coach John Stanczykiewicz.

"I give all the credit in the world to Brian Evans. That might have been one of the best efforts we've seen against us," Stanczykiewicz said. "It ranks right up there with New Trier, Fenwick and Loyola. They did a nice job defensively, everything we did was challenged on the floor and we had to work hard for every shot."

Mundelein coach Brian Evans wasn't so impressed with his team's play. The veteran coach seemed downright angry after the tough 29-point beating.

"They're better, bigger and stronger than us," Evans said. "The bottom line was that we had (senior guard Shara) Swager in

'I know Brian Evans is one of the best coaches in the area; I was really interested to see what he was going to cook up for us tonight.'

John Stanczykiewicz
Warren girls basketball coach foul trouble and she's the focus of our offense. We try to do the same thing - attack the other team's one good scorer. But Swager spent most of the game on the bench and we really missed Swager and (Kristen) Hecht. Without them, we're not the same team."

Of course, a team's coach is also its biggest critic and that was certainly the case in the Warren effort. Mustang floor leader Swager was relatively pleased with her team's effort despite the bottom line.

"It's very disappointing to lose like this, especially when we know that we could have competed with them," Swager said. "We gave a good effort tonight and we were playing tough defensively, but we weren't getting calls and we weren't able to get some shots and it cost us."

Swager blamed the huge margin between the teams on the early foul trouble the Mustangs found themselves in. While no one fouled out of the game, Swager said she felt as if the trouble took her team out of the proper mindset.

"I think we tend to lose focus, we're a scrappy team and it's difficult to play scrappy and not be able to get in there and go for the ball," Swager said. "We got in foul trouble early and we started forcing up shots. We need to wait for the offense to really set up and then make our shots and that didn't happen tonight."

The foul trouble was mostly Swager's problem as she racked up two fouls early in the first quarter, prompting a quick benching and earned her fourth in the middle of the third stanza, preventing her from using her usually aggressive style of play.

"Having her (Swager) on the floor makes us a little bit better, having Kristen Hecht on the floor makes us a little bit better and they were both in foul trouble so that takes away our two best

Other than, or perhaps because, of their scrappiness, the Mustangs have made a career out of making the toughest opponents sweat. Other than the Warren loss, Mundelein also competed with the high-powered Libertyville Wildcats, losing 48-37 in that game.

"I think we've been doing really well, I think if we played Libertyville again, we would beat them," Swager said. "Most of the teams in the area are young so everyone is inexperienced and we can win some games."

If asked, Stanczykiewicz probably wouldn't argue with Swager's point. Other than buttering up the team's defensive play, Warren's playcaller has a great deal of respect for his Mundelein counterpart.

"I know Brian Evans is one of the best coaches in the area; I was really interested to see what he was going to cook up for us tonight," Stanczykiewicz said.

In the end, the Mustangs weren't able to cook up much more than a mere 21 points of total offense. But while Evans wasn't ecstatic about his team's effort, everyone else in the gym certainly was.

PREP PROFILES

Shara Swager
Senior Guard

A typical day for Mustang Shara Swager can be summed up in three simple words: cut, slash and shoot. No, she's not a deranged serial killer, instead, she's the main reason why the Mustangs stand at 6-3 after losing one of the best senior classes in school history.

The 5-foot-6-inch point guard has been on the varsity roster since her freshman year and has calmly waited for her chance to shine. That time is now and her coach Brian Evans wouldn't have it any other way.

"Shara would be the most fit to be that leader that we need because she's played for so long on the varsity team," Evans said. "She's a natural pick for that floor general, we just need her to step up."

The way she's stepped up is through the use of a killer speed game that allows her to slash through defenders and penetrate to the basket. While foul trouble prevented her from shining during last week's game against Warren, she's certainly made a splash in the area girls basketball scene - enough of a splash that makes her the center of attention for opposing coaches.

"If you take away their main weapon (Swager) it really limits Mundelein's game because she is able to penetrate so well," Warren coach John Stanczykiewicz said. "She's a good player and that was one of our main goals was to focus on her."

Before she was Mundelein's consummate George S. Patton, Swager got her start playing pick-up games with her family.

"My uncles were the biggest influence on me because they used to play with me and encourage me when I was a kid," Swager said. "I just started playing park district ball, then I got onto the feeder teams and I've been playing since then."

The rest, as they say, is history, yet Swager would certainly like to do a lot in the present before she's done with the red and white this season.

BASKETBALL

And then there were none

By Steve Peterson

Sports Reporter

They say you can't tell the players without a roster. In the case of Grant Girls basketball team, sometimes it is hard to tell who's who with a roster, thanks to a huge amount of player movement between the varsity and sophomore ranks.

While the varsity roster may be in flux, one thing hasn't changed: the loss column. Despite the lack of stability within GCHS coach Tom Oeffling's roster, the Bulldogs retain a spotless record nearly a month into the season.

Now, add one Autumn Gaylor to the mix. The sophomore, wearing No. 32, scored 11 points in her varsity debut, a 76-26 Grant win over Prairie rival Wauconda. The 50-point win, mind you, that's the margin of victory, not point total like most contests at the varsity level, gave Grant a 10-0 record and a 4-0 mark in the North Suburban Conference Prairie Division.

"It's like the Agatha Christie book, 'And Then There Were None,'" said Oeffling of the injuries.

After weeks of losing one starter after another for reasons ranging from run-of-the-mill game injuries to disease, there finally might be a light at the end of the tunnel for the team. This week, the hoped-for return list includes Lauren Liles, who's been out with a knee injury for a large portion of the season, but added to the list of late is starter Shelly Peterson. Peterson, a senior forward, has been battling a back problem.

"She has a back injury. I have a lot of respect for her, because she is such a vocal leader on the team. She is such a supporter of all the teammates and knows the game really well. She is like a coach on the floor. She plays great defense and knows her role," Oeffling said. That adds to the previous list of the all-county team on the bench on the Injured Reserve list of Kaela Munster, Becka Gonyo and Tory Ziegler.

Sorting all the coming and goings of teammates are the guards who lead the offense. Senior Sonya Cellucci, all 5-feet-6-inches of her, is one of them. She tallied 8 points and, she, and her teammates played tough defense from the shout of "defense" in a pre-game huddle until the merciful end of the clash.

"They know what to do. They're supposed to be intense on defense. We run the same offense and defense at all levels, so while it may take a player a while to fit in, they know what to do," Oeffling said.

The visitors on Friday at Wauconda also had some hot shooting from the perimeter. Grant's Ashley Arff bagged 3 three-pointers for her 15-point night. Junior forward Heather Sutherland matched that point total, and guard Heather Reutsche added 11.

"We normally shoot pretty well from the outside," Cellucci said. "On defense, we just stick to man-to-man really hard."

Cellucci was impressed with Gaylor's rookie performance in the Wauconda game, echoing the sentiments of her teammates and coaches.

"She does a good job on the pick-and-roll," Cellucci said.

The Grant squad stayed unbeaten thanks to a 17-3 start that did not allow a second field goal until the second quarter by Wauconda. Lauren Mead scored 16 points to lead Wauconda in the tough loss. Mead's performance was no surprise as she has been Wauconda's leading scorer throughout the year.

"We're a young team. Grant passed the ball so well, that (it) neutralized our zone defense. Grant is deep, and has a good program," Wauconda Bulldog coach Tim Bartusch said. "We're a young team, with only three seniors, so we'll probably take our lumps for a while."

Wauconda (1-8) hosted its holiday tournament this week with Waukegan, Elgin Academy and Woodlands. WHS usually plays well in the tournament. WHS bested Lakes 30-10 for its only win thus far in the season. One of Mead's best performances came in a tough 52-47 loss to Round Lake. The WHS leader had 24 points in the Panther contest.

Grant has a big eight days to rest from the Friday night win to a Dec. 17 clash with St. Charles East, at Grant at 2:30 p.m. Grant then plays at the McHenry tournament, where it could be challenged, starting Dec. 21.

WAUKEGAN 47, WOODLANDS ACADEMY 28

•There might be 20 miles between Waukegan and Wauconda, but the Waukegan girls basketball team played like it was home in a 19-point victory in the opening round of the Wauconda Invitational last Saturday.

The Wildcats were buried from the beginning of the game as the Bulldogs were able to take control early. Waukegan was led by freshman Brittany Brown and junior Courtnee Doby who finished the game with 11 points a piece.

WAUCONDA 46, ELGIN ACADEMY 18

•The Bulldogs were biting last weekend in the Wauconda Invitational as both Waukegan and Wauconda pulled off huge victories in the tournament. The hosts made short work of Elgin Academy, bolting out to a 18-5 lead in the first quarter and completely controlling the ball, holding the Hilltoppers to single digits in every quarter and limiting them to two points in the third.

Elgin didn't even break into double-digits as a team until the third while the Bulldogs, led by Lauren Mead (14 points), Patrice DaCosta (10) and Jessie Middlesworth (10) destroyed the visiting Hilltoppers.

LIBERTYVILLE 54, ZION-BENTON 39

•The Wildcats continued to impress in last Friday's big 15-point win over NSC-Lake rival Zion-Benton (1-8, 0-3). Carol Kruckman led the way for the Wildcats with 25 points while Brenna Bohl made a mighty wingman with 15 of her own. Brittany Simmons was the Zee-Bees' lone double-digit scorer with 10.

Libertyville (10-1, 2-1) got the big win thanks to an impressive fourth quarter as the Wildcats held on to a 39-35 lead at the end of three. The Wildcats kicked up their defense, holding Zion to just 4 points in the final stanza.

The Wildcats were also helped by a multitude of Zion-Benton fouls as Libertyville shot 19-of-30 from the charity stripe in the game.

MUNDELEIN 46, LAKE FOREST 40

•Mustang sharpshooter Shara Swager came to play against the Lake Forest Scouts (3-4, 0-2 NSC-Lake), scoring 25 in a close 46-40 win. The secret of Swager's game was easy: get to the line. The senior had 22 shots from the charity stripe, hitting 12.

Mundelein's Kristen Hecht and Samantha Panitch added to the cause, scoring 7 apiece. Jennifer Johnson was Lake Forest's leading scorer with 13 while Jorie Schuetz and Jamie Staudt added 10 apiece.

The second half was a back-and-forth battle until the Mustangs finally put the game away, tripling Lake Forest's output 12-4 in the fourth. Mundelein improves to 6-2 and 2-1 in the Lake.

Season's greetings debated

By Regan Foster

rfoster@nwnewsgroup.com

A season dedicated to peace has spurred a debate over seasonal semantics that is anything but peaceful.

From grassroots to government, the "merry Christmas" versus "happy holidays" debate has people across the nation and throughout the area talking.

Many retailers in the United States have downplayed "Christmas" this year, trading in the Christian-associated noun for the more secular "Holidays."

Happy with 'Holidays'

"I support 'happy holidays' because it's more politically correct," said Erin Wright, a 17-year-old junior at Johnsbury High School. "I feel like if more people were aware of the fact that there's more to December than just Christmas, they could put their differences aside."

"The world would be a lot better of a place."

In Wright's opinion, wishing friends and neighbors "happy holidays" demonstrates a wider worldview.

She enjoys the support of the American Civil Liberties Union and Algonquin resident Darryl Bessant.

Bessant said it was important to be aware that Christmas was not the only holiday taking place in December.

"Happy holidays would probably be more appropriate in this diverse world, if we want to really be sensitive," Bessant said.

Conserving "Christmas"

Wonder Lake resident Joyce Buckley, on the other hand, said taking "Christmas" out of the December lexicon would cheapen the meaning of the season.

"Without Christ there isn't Christmas," Buckley said. "It wasn't the birth of Santa Claus, it was the birth of Christ and Santa Claus came along later."

Buckley made her statement after shopping at Wal-Mart, one of the many national chains that has come under fire from conservative organizations such as the Catholic League for Religious and Civil Rights for downplaying Christmas. Wal-Mart spokeswoman Sarah Clark said in a statement that the retail giant has no policy that would prohibit an employee from wishing customers a "Merry Christmas."

"We encourage associates to use their best judgment when greeting our customers and to assess which greeting — or greetings — best suit the customers and associates in their local store," she said. "If 'Merry Christmas' is the preferred greeting, that is fine and appropriate. Or, some associates may choose to say 'Happy Holidays,' which may be more inclusive."

Still, Buckley said retailers who refused to include the word Christmas in their policies should just forego the season completely.

Capitol call

The great greeting debate even cast its shadow across the United States Capitol. Speaker J. Dennis Hastert, R-Yorkville, told the Capitol architect that the decorated evergreen he lit Thursday should officially be redubbed a "Christmas Tree." The fir earned its "Capitol Holiday Tree" moniker in the late 1990s.

"The speaker is simply saying that when you see a tree that's decorated during the holiday season, regardless of your religious beliefs, it's a Christmas tree," said Hastert Spokesman Brad Hahn.

The Rev. Joe Dunlap of McHenry's St. Paul's Episcopal Church said he was more concerned with what he dubbed an alarmist attitude toward the seasonal semantics than he was about the wording itself. He said 'Happy Holidays' seemed more contrived, but he added that he could understand desire to be respectful of other faiths and cultures.

"I think the alarm is exaggerated. We're still a very strong-in-faith nation and people," Dunlap said. "I feel we have many other more important concerns as Christians than how we bid each other the best at this time."

Jordan Hoeft, a Crystal Lake resident and student at McHenry County College, said he didn't speak a seasonal greeting unless he knew it was appropriate.

"I actually have a lot of friends who don't celebrate the holidays so I don't say anything," Hoeft said as he stood outside Crystal Lake's Target store. "I'm not sure why so many people are making such a big deal out of it."

Condell Day Center continues Building Blocks series

Condell Day Center's series, Building B.L.O.C.K.S. (Building Learning Opportunities for Caregivers and Kids), continues its educational series with new sessions for parents and their children one to three years old. With their children, parents engage in fun, structured activities that relate to each session's theme.

Sessions in the Building B.L.O.C.K.S. series last five weeks and meet from 10 to 11 a.m. on Wednesdays at the Condell Day Center, located on Condell Medical Center's campus, 700 Garfield Ave. in Libertyville. The cost per session is $35 per family.

The series will run until June. Series topics include the following:

Jan. 4 through Feb. 1, Gross Motor Development—Kids will run, jump, climb and dance through this session while focusing on gross motor skill development.

Feb. 15 through March 15, Language

Development—Navigate through the wonderful world of communication as focus is on repetition of toys and books. Sign language also will be introduced.

March 29 through April 26, Social/Emotional Development—Learn methods to help foster concepts such as dramatic play as children are introduced to playing together through many activities.

May 10 through June 7, The World Around

Us—Explore the world by taking walks (weather permitting), engaging in sensory activities, and visiting the world through art projects and books.

Early registration for the Building B.L.O.C.K.S. series is suggested, but not required. Those wanting to join a session after it has begun may do so. To register or receive more information, contact Condell Day Center at 847-990-5800.

ATTENTION PET OWNERS
We Do Not Knowingly Accept Ads For Free/Giveaway Animals

If you must give up your beloved pet, please consider these suggestions.
*Free animal ads suggest that there is something wrong with the animal, or that it has no value.
*Some people who respond to these free animal ads are imposters and are only concerned about making a profit and not the animal's welfare.
*Charging a fee to a potential pet owner confirms the responsibility of pet ownership for an entire lifetime of that pet. For more information, please contact the Humane Society.

ARE YOU SPRING CLEANING?? GET RID OF THE CLUTTER AND RUN A FREE or GIVEAWAY Ad in the Lakeland Classifieds. Free and Giveaways are run at NO CHARGE! (We discourage any pet ads). Deadlines: 10am Wednesdays. (847) 223-8161, ext.191.

College Scholarship Money Available

Are you a senior at Grayslake Community High School District 127 interested in attending Northwestern University in Evanston, Illinois? Would you be interested in a scholarship? Since 2001 the Richard G. Oehler Testamentary Trust has annually awarded a scholarship to a senior at Grayslake Community High School District 127 who will attend Northwestern University. The Trustee seeks to award the scholarship to a well-rounded student who has demonstrated superior academics, as well as leadership and moral integrity through involvement in school and community activities.

All seniors at GCHS who are interested in attending Northwestern University must apply NOW! To apply, a student must submit an application, a 7th semester transcript from GCHS, two letters of reference and an essay (typed, double-spaced and no longer than 250 words) describing how the applicant has demonstrated leadership and integrity in his or her life. In addition, each applicant will have a brief interview with the scholarship Trustee.

Applications, transcripts and more information are available through the Guidance Office at GCHS. All documents must be completed and submitted to the Guidance Office by February 1, 2006.

Geo-Karis: Medicare signups underway

State Sen. Adeline Geo-Karis (R-Zion) is reminding seniors and disabled individuals who are eligible for Medicare prescription drug coverage that they can now sign up.

Geo-Karis said residents who plan to sign up for Medicare drug coverage, which will begin Jan. 1, 2006, must be enrolled in the program by Dec. 31. In order to enroll, they must first select a carrier and identify the benefit package that will best suit their needs.

"Illinois residents, who are eligible for federal prescription drug assistance, are encouraged to consider their coverage options before choosing a Medicare package," Geo-Karis said. "It stands to reason that if their current prescription drug plan better suits their needs, then they might want to opt out of enrolling in the Medicare program. However, anyone who does not currently have prescription drug coverage, but who qualifies for Medicare, should consider the program."

Geo-Karis said individuals who are currently covered by an employer should have received a letter to indicate if coverage is as good as or better than Medicare. If it is better, then that individual can choose to decline enrollment in a Medicare prescription drug plan, which will allow them to avoid incurring a penalty if they decide to enroll in the Medicare program at a later time.

In response to changes in the federal Medicare Part D Program, Illinois is converting its own prescription drug programs. Senior Care and Circuit Breaker will become Illinois Cares Rx Plus and Illinois Cares Rx Basic, and will cover everyone that is already eligible by Medicare as well as some of those who are not.

"If you are eligible for Medicare Part D or Illinois Cares Rx, and want to enroll in a program, it is important to pick a plan and sign up as soon as possible to avoid the late enrollment penalty," Geo-Karis said.

Teen charged with bus damage

McHenry Police have charged a teenager with criminal damage to property, criminal trespass to state supported property and criminal interference with a vehicle following damage discovered at McHenry School districts' transportation lot.

Eric P. Nett, 18, of 311 N. River Road, McHenry, was charged on Dec. 9. Transportation workers found the buses, which transport students of McHenry District 15 and 156 and Montini Public School, at 4 a.m. on Dec. 9. School for public and parochial schools in McHenry and Montini was called off that day.

"We received several leads from the public which pointed us in the right direction. We also received great cooperation from the schools and the transportation department," said William Brogan, McHenry's deputy police chief.

Nett was booked and taken to McHenry County Jail that night. On Dec. 10, a judge set Nett's bail for $50,000. Nett posted $5,000 in cash bond and was released.

A second individual, a 16-year-old juvenile, was released to his parents after being referred to McHenry County Court Services, Juvenile Division. Other juveniles are also believed to be involved.

Brogan said that an exact dollar figure has yet to be arrived at for damages. A total of 42 tires were slashed and bus windows broken, police said.

The bus lot is at 5805 W. Route 120 in McHenry and is about an acre plus in size.

Fox Lake Police Chief may retire soon

By Steve Peterson

Staff Reporter

One month after receiving a host of honors from the village he served for 33 years, Fox Lake Police Chief Ed Gerretsen Jr. is expected to retire on Jan. 1.

The Fox Lake Police Pension Board approved the retirement with that effective date.

Gerretsen has been on medical leave for the past three months.

The Fox Lake Police and Fire Commission met this week to consider and approved the promotions of Nike Behan, currently the department's interim chief, from commander to lieutenant and also John Hoyne, from patrolman to sergeant. Both were congratulated for their promotions at a Fox Lake board meeting.

"I have talked with Gerretsen and he is very happy with the selection (of Behan as chief)," said Fox Lake Trustee Ed Bender.

"I'm definitely going to appoint Behan as chief," said Fox Lake Mayor Cindy Irwin.

"I'm definitely going to appoint Behan as chief."

Cindy Irwin
Fox Lake Mayor

"The police chief has the right to appoint the deputy chief."

The retirement brings to three the number of retirees from the department this year. The list grew this week as Ron Nagel retired, effective Dec. 13. Deputy Chief Rich Becmer retired in October.

Bender said the transition should be a smooth one for the department of about 22 sworn officers.

Two more police officers could soon join the police force.

Last month, hundreds of colleagues, village officials, administrators and residents turned out to honor Gerretsen at the police facility, when it was named the Edward Gerretsen Jr. Police Facility in his honor.

Memorial Service

Rachel Salomonson
Memorial scheduled for
Dec. 18, 2005

A memorial service celebrating the life of Rachel Salomonson will be held on Dec. 18 from 2 to 5 p.m. at Faith Baptist Church on the corner of Atkinson and Brae Loch Roads in Grayslake. Rachel lost her life on Nov. 15 in a car accident, north of Mankato, Minn., during Minnesota's first winter storm.

The service, officiated by Pastor John Holm from Shepherd of the Lakes Lutheran Church, Grayslake, will commence at 2 p.m. A portion of the service will be designated for tributes from family and friends. Persons attending are invited to a light buffet immediately following the service.

A Web site has been set up for Rachel at www.rachelsalomonson.com. At this site you can e-mail your condolences and/or memories of Rachel. Please indicate if you would like these stories shared at the memorial service by a designated reader, or you may present them yourself during the service.

In lieu of flowers, the family has set up a memorial fund that will support scholarships for both Grayslake Central High School and the Minnesota State University in Mankato where Rachel was a student seeking a degree in Fine Arts. National City Bank has established a Rachel Salomonson Memorial Account.

Rachel Salomonson

Marie N. Thompson

Age 93, a former 45 year resident of Wildwood passed away Saturday Dec. 10, 2005 at Lake Forest Hospital at the age of 93. She was born in Barron, Wis. to the late George and Zora Reed. Marie had taught at Woodland School and was a volunteer for the Lake County Eyecare Center.

Marie is survived by her daughter Cherie (Ken) Grubb, her grandchildren, several great-grandchildren, a daughter-in-law Shirley Oleson; and her beloved pets Cheyenne and Sophie. She is preceded in death by her husband, Neil Thompson; her son, Florin Oleson, and her three brothers.

A memorial service will be held on Saturday Dec. 17, at 11 a.m. at Millburn Congregational Church, 19073 Grass Lake Rd. Lake Villa. In lieu of flowers memorials may be made to Save-a-Pet, 31664 N. Fairfield Rd., Grayslake, IL 60030. All funeral arrangements were entrusted to Strang Funeral Chapel and Crematorium in Grayslake.

Harry O Thompson

Age 79, a resident of Round Lake for over 50 years passed away Sunday Dec. 11, 2005 at Condell Medical Center in Libertyville. He was born in Chicago to the late Harry and Berenice Thompson. He served in the Marine Corps during WWII as an aircraft mechanic.

Happy Holidays

Carriage rides are still a popular attraction for the village of Libertyville's annual Dickens of a Holiday. The event runs Saturdays through Christmas.

How to manage stress for a happier holiday

As the holidays near, hearts may be filled with joy but our heads and our calendars are filled with shopping lists, holiday parties, children's holiday activities, community activities and deadlines at the office.

These endless activities and commitments surrounding the holidays can usually lead to some added seasonal stress.

"Often, it is not only the stress, but also our coping methods that take a toll on our health and our waistlines," said Toby Smithson, a community dietitian with the Lake County Health Department and a spokesperson for the Illinois Dietetic Association.

Smithson urges people to make this holiday season different by keeping inappropriate coping methods in check so they don't sabotage health and weight management efforts.

"For some of us, activity is a way to cope with stress, for others it may be relaxation, but for many, it is not unusual to reach for a favorite food or beverage when feeling a bit overwhelmed," Smithson said.

Smithson said many people have hopes that snacking will make you feel a little less stressed or at least calm nerves a bit so we can better tackle our long list of holiday "to-dos."

And while for a moment that frosted sugar cookie was so tasty the stress seemed to subside, it creates only a short lived feeling that is not truly making the stress disappear or solving the long term problem.

Not only does the stress remain, but extra calories and fat do as well, often from our favorite comfort foods. According to Smithson, when we are using foods or beverages to cope with stress, we often make choices that lack nutrients and are higher in fat and calories. In turn, this habit can contribute to weight gain and risk of chronic disease, which can also be sources for stress in our lives.

"If your method of managing the added holiday hassles last year involved sugar cookies and fudge washed down with a few glasses of eggnog, it may be time to rethink how you will be handling your stress," Smithson said.

"While it remains impossible to totally rid our lives of stress, especially during the holiday season, we can change hazardous coping methods that can take a major toll on our health."

Tips to have a happy holiday

Smithson suggests the following ways to cope with stress and refrain from over-eating during the holidays and throughout the next year:

- Make a list of other activities that can fill your time instead of eating. Some ideas may include physical activity, journaling, taking a bath, listening to relaxing music, reading your favorite book, or even taking a nap. Keep this list with you and post it where you need it most such as on your refrigerator, on or near your computer or television or on your desk at work.

- Write down everything you eat each day. This will help you to see where your problem areas may be or what time of the day is your biggest challenge. For instance, is most of your eating done in front of the television or computer, or do you tend to eat many of your calories late in the afternoon or in the evening? Having this information will allow you to start making changes in your lifestyle.

- Make physical activity a regular part of your day to help decrease your stress levels. Also use physical activity as a way to replace eating when you are feeling stressed.

- Eat three regular meals, starting with a balanced breakfast, and include snacks to avoid being too hungry. Allowing yourself to become too hungry, can cause you to be tempted to reach for food when stress hits.

- Clean up your surroundings. Get rid of unhealthy foods in your desk drawers, on your countertops or in your car. Make sure you have healthier options to reach for when you need a snack.

- Be aware of your hunger and satiety cues. Eat when you are truly hungry and be able to realize when you are eating solely for emotional reasons.

For further tips on healthy eating for the holidays, enlist the help of a registered dietitian, the nutrition expert, to help you evaluate your eating habits and adopt a healthier lifestyle.
